The Rubber Problem Solved

(An Editorial)

Dr. J. Alfred Hall, principal biochemist of the United States forestry service, gave testimony of the greatest value to the senate committee investigating the rubber program. He had no doubt that it is practical to make ethyl alcohol from waste products of the various woodworking industries. In particular, he spoke with the warmest approval of the plans of The Tribune's subsidiary, the Ontario Paper company, to make alcohol from what is called sulphite liquor.

Dr. Hall said he was "perfectly happy and satisfied" with the Ontario Paper company's project as a competent pilot plant. Sen. Gillette added that The Tribune is far ahead of the government in this development of the rubber program. What these gentlemen said confirms us in the opinion that the rubber problem is solved.

The great obstacle now is the government itself, which has shown a disposition to sabotage the endeavor by withholding permission to obtain a relatively small amount of required apparatus. Little is needed. The company already has the boilers and furnaces required for the distilling process. No question of transportation is involved because the raw material is already at the mill.

The Ontario Paper company, now 30 years old, has, from its beginning, been a leader in developing and perfecting scientific economies in the uses of wood until today the company is far ahead of all the other paper makers. In recent years it has been particularly interested in finding uses for sulphite liquor in which are dissolved wood sugars and resins. The industry generally has been content to let this potentially valuable material run into the sewers, to pollute streams and water supplies. The Ontario company sought ways to utilize the so-called waste product. One of the early, successful applications was in the preparation of yeast.

When the Japanese captured Malaya and the Dutch Islands, the world's principal sources of rubber, attention was turned at once to discovering whether the sulphite liquor could be used in making a synthetic substitute. The testimony before Sen. Gillette's subcommittee demonstrates how successful the efforts have been. It was shown that much of the alcohol that may be needed in the rubber program can be derived from sulphite liquor alone and that all that is likely ever to be needed can be obtained from sawdust and other waste products of wood using industries.

The processes are not secret. So far as the Ontario Paper company is concerned, it has invited every one in the industry to make free use of its methods. Some of the other processes are covered by German patents, now in the possession of the government's alien property custodian, and, as Dr. Hall testified, there are among the refugees from Germany in this country a number of men who have operated such plants and possess the know-how.

If the people of this country want tires, all they have to do is insist that the burocrats in Washington allow us and other wood users the materials needed for alcohol and rubber plants. The Ontario company is not asking for any kind of a subsidy. It is building its plant with its own money as a demonstration of what the industry can do if it is allowed to go ahead. The raw material is plentiful, costs nothing, and its use in making rubber will not deprive the nation of anything needed for another purpose.

Rubber made from grain reduces the supply of foodstuffs. Rubber made from petroleum uses another valuable raw material. Rubber made from wood wastes is, to mix the metaphor, pure velvet. We can have it any time the burocrats will give the nod.

OPA FOOD SETUP CURBS OUTPUT, HOOVER WARNS

Fix Prices at Farm, U. S. Urged.

New York, Jan. 21 [Special].—Former President Herbert Hoover called for abandonment of retail price ceilings on food in an address here tonight before the national industrial conference board. The address was broadcast over a nation-wide network.

Hoover asserted that food price control methods now being applied are seriously limiting production. He said that acute shortages of meat and fats now exist and that "unless we can quickly realize and quickly reverse these limiting forces there are dangers to the conduct of the war."

The former President and food administrator during the World war said that other forces curtailing food production are shortages of farm labor and machinery. He demanded that agriculture be envisioned as a munitions industry and that the farmer be given men and tools so he can do his part.

Key to Production.

Hoover said that systems of frozen retail price ceilings on food and "farm parities" are not adapted to problems of war production because they cannot single out and give premiums on production of the things we most need in parallel with the shifting demands of war. He emphasized that prices dominate production and can either stimulate or stifle it.

"The first reform needed is to abandon retail price ceilings on food and to substitute the alternative methods developed in the last war," he said. "That method is to fix prices as near the farm as possible. And they can then be fixed to stimulate production of the things we need. The consumer can be more effectively and more simply protected by regulating the turnover and profits of the food processor and the markups of the wholesaler and retailer."

Increases Higher than 1917.

He said that food prices have risen about 16 per cent since retail price ceilings were partially applied a year ago and 9 per cent since they were fully applied, a slightly larger rise than took place during the first year of food control in the last war.

Hoover suggested that all functions of price control should be vested in the secretary of agriculture, who "alone can direct price so as to secure production and protect the consumer."

Drastic steps for solution of the farm labor problem were suggested by the former President. He said drafting of labor from the farms into the army and into munitions factories should be halted at once and large and temporary importations of Mexican farm labor should be made. He proposed that the army adopt the European plan of furloughing farm boys for the few months of peak planting and harvest and that such men remain under military direction, drawing both the army and the farmers' pay.

Food Second Only to War.

Building up our flocks and herds is of paramount importance, Hoover said, lamenting that the present trend is toward destruction thru slaughter of breeding and dairy stock. He said that during the World war our hog population increased 22 per cent, our beef cattle 27 per cent, and our milch cows 10 per cent.

"Food supply has now become secondary only to military operations in determining the outcome of the war," he said. "And it will take first place in saving the world from anarchy after the war."

UNION REFUSES TO UNLOAD FOOD SHIP IN SOLOMONS

Dispute Over Wages Delays Convoys from Frisco.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 21 [Special].—The house today heard a charge by Ralph Bard, assistant secretary of the navy, that a Congress of Industrial Organizations union engaged in a wage controversy in the San Francisco bay area had prevented vessels from meeting schedules controling convoys required for shipment of men and supplies and had disorganized troop movements to ports of embarkation.

A local of the AFL, Bard said, had joined the CIO unit in refusing to abide by a master wage stabilization agreement covering west coast shipyards and in defying the Presidential executive order abolishing premium pay for Saturday and Sunday work. The order, he pointed out, was subject to such exceptions as Miss Frances Perkins, secretary of labor, should approve.

[Charge seamen are shanghaied into signing their insurance over to Communists. Details on page 9.]

Ignored Wage Pact.

The two local unions, Bard maintained, declined to conform to the stabilization agreement on the ground that they had separate contracts. Bard stated that Sidney Hillman, as associate director of the former OPM, had declared these contracts to be invalid.

Bard's charges were contained in a letter written to Rep. John Z. Anderson [R., Cal.]. Anderson, reading it to the house late today, said that 30 members of the CIO union who had insisted upon working without benefit of premium pay for Saturday and Sunday work had been fined by the union. Others, he said, had stayed away from the shipyards.

Fined $10 a Day.

"Particularly in respect to the action of the East Bay local 1304, CIO," Bard wrote Anderson, "the insistence of this union upon the terms of its own individual contract has resulted in the refusal to permit its members to work on Saturdays and Sundays without payment of premium wages. In the case of union members who had disregarded this requirement of the union, local 1304 has assessed fines of $10 per day against such individuals.

"Specifically, on the week-ends of Dec. 19 and 20, 1942, and of Dec. 26 and 27, 1942, contrary to the demands of East Bay shipyards for the work of machinists on vital and urgent war work, East Bay local refused to permit its members to work on these week-ends under conditions applicable to all local labor.

Delayed Ship Projects.

"This refusal had the specific effect of disrupting work schedules in new vessels under construction and involving delays in several ship projects of extreme urgency.

"A further consequence was failure to effect repairs on navy and army vessels, so preventing these vessels from meeting schedules controling convoys required for shipment of men and supplies, with the result that convoys were delayed and schedules of troop movements to ports of embarkation were seriously disorganized.

"The men responsible for this," Anderson added, after reading that section of the assistant secretary's letter, "are just as guilty of treason as tho they had employed a time bomb to delay the ships."

Asks Army to Step In.

He proposed that the army and navy "step in" and remove the union's agents from their posts of authority.

"Under what authority could the military and naval officials act?" asked Rep. Fred L. Crawford [R., Mich.].

"They can act in cases of treason," Anderson suggested.

"I don't know about that," said Crawford.

Sick Marines Forced to Bring Cargo to Island.

Akron, O., Jan. 21 [Approved by censor].—Flaming with indignation, at least six battle scarred veterans of Guadalcanal have come back to Akron with the incredible claim that their buddies have been forced to unload their own supplies from a merchant ship on that island battleground because of the refusal of civilian crew men to work on Sunday.

Their stories have been put up to naval officials in Washington for confirmation or denial. Thus far the navy reports that it is investigating.

But confirmation has come from a high official source in Washington who, tho he witnessed these conditions during his service in Guadalcanal, must necessarily remain anonymous.

Eyewitnesses Make Charges.

The combined charges of three Akron marine eyewitnesses, a navy pilot and two sailors, who heard the story while they were in action in the Solomons, are:

1. That a merchant marine vessel dropped its hook two miles off Guadalcanal one Saturday afternoon and that after spending two hours in landing supplies, the civilian crew knocked off, refusing to work again until Monday morning.

2. That hungry, malaria weakened and in some cases slightly wounded marines, fed up on a rice diet and lack of supplies, were forced to put out in their own barges to get supplies on Sunday.

Deny "Exaggeration."

One source in Washington put these reports down to "exaggeration that we find quite common when boys are under the stress of emotion."

But the men who have been coming back from the blazing hell of Guadalcanal insist with a characteristic bluntness of seasoned fighting men that "there is no exaggeration about it."

The young navy pilot, survivor of the Wasp, branded the incident as "the worst scandal of the war." He labeled the refusal of merchant marine crews to work on Sunday a "strike" and blamed the National Maritime union [CIO].

Stood Off Shore.

He said that a ship loaded with urgently needed supplies stood two miles off shore. "The crew refused to land those supplies, tho we had marines ashore hungry and in terrible need," he said. "Why," he asked, "doesn't some one report this to Washington?"

A marine lieutenant, wounded and recovering from malaria, told of a merchant ship that had put in on a Saturday afternoon. He said the crew unloaded for two hours and then stopped. "They refused to work all day Sunday. Finally our marines swarmed onto the ship to get the supplies they needed." He called the incident "a disgrace."

Another Akron district marine lieutenant asserted that the reason that the supplies were not landed was not because the crew couldn't get them in. "The landing boats could have got in all right. There was no opposition from the Japs. We had the landing covered." With that he cut off the conversation and refused to say more about it.

Had Only Rice for Food.

The two sailors, survivors of ships lost in the battle of the Solomons, said they reached shore too late to witness the incident, but that "stories of the strike were rampant."

"During the first weeks of action the boys didn't have enough supplies. Food was short and so were medical supplies. For a time, all the food we got was rice we captured from the Japs," one officer said. He declared that after a few weeks of that diet "our boys weren't interested in waiting over Sunday to get the food that lay just offshore. They just went after it."

An inquiry made to the Beacon Journal Washington bureau disclosed that not only has the same story been confirmed by an eyewitness of high standing, but further, the reports are beginning to be circulated widely in congress and that a blowup is imminent.

Senators Move to Determine Limit for Army Expansion

BY JOHN FISHER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 21.—Wheels were set in motion today for congress to determine the maximum size of the rapidly growing army, with introduction in the senate of a resolution to investigate and make recommendations on a proper distribution of the nation's man power.

Sen. John H. Bankhead II.

The resolution was introduced by Sen. John H. Bankhead II. of Alabama, stanch Democrat and brother of the late speaker of the house, after he and other Democrats voiced sharp criticism on the senate floor against present administration draft plans.

They said continuance of this policy will put 12 million men in the army and navy by the end of 1943 and drain the nation of farm and industrial labor needed more to support the military operations of the United States and her allies.

Only 14 Million Available.

Bankhead and Senators Burton K. Wheeler [D., Mont.] and Elmer Thomas [D., Okla.] declared that it would be far better to provide fighting allies such as the Chinese and Russians with adequate war materials and foodstuffs than attempt to raise a huge American army for overseas fighting when the ships and production facilities are not available to accommodate it and the allies as well.

Bankhead said that, according to reliable estimates, there are only about 14 million men between 18 and 38 years of age who are available for military service. Of these, 7 million are already in service, and at the present rate of induction of 400,000 men a month, approximately 5 million more will be added by the end of 1943, of whom about 1 million must be taken from farms, he asserted. The farm labor supply cannot be further reduced without disastrous results, and war factories will be hit similarly by the draft, he said.

Called Duty of Congress.

"It seems to me that congress, in view of the specific authorization in the Constitution to raise and support armies, should now reappraise our entire man power program with special reference to fixing the maximum number to be inducted into the army," said Bankhead.

He then explained his resolution for the investigation and authority to make appropriate recommendations for legislation. He suggested that the senate appropriations committee handle the probe because it deals directly with money spent for war purposes, hinting that appropriations might be limited. No decision was reached on the question of a committee to handle the inquiry.

Bankhead told the senate that Russia and China, in direct contact with the enemy, have repeatedly declared that they have large supplies of man power and do not need armies but war materials and foodstuffs for successful warfare against the axis. The United States can produce what they cannot, he said.

Want Tools, Not Men.

Russia has from the beginning requested war tools and not men, Bankhead asserted, and he quoted Dr. T. V. Soong, brother-in-law of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek as saying recently that China has almost unlimited man power, but wants up to date war weapons and so equipped can annihilate the Japanese.

Bankhead said that the Japanese army is in China and in close proximity to India, which has at least 1,000,000 trained soldiers. These Indian troops are under British control, asserted Bankhead, adding that he could understand why they haven't been pitted against the Japanese invading army.

Wheeler said that the large army contemplated for the United States will wreck the nation's economy and morale. Civilian officials, including Man Power Chief Paul V. McNutt have been urging a reduction in army goals, but have run into a stone wall against the joint chiefs of staff and the President. A showdown now appears imminent.

One-Third Get Extra Gas in Chicago Area

BY LLOYD NORMAN.

One-third of the 715,547 motorists in the Chicago metropolitan area obtained B or C supplementary gasoline rations in December, Michael F. Mulcahy, area director for the office of price administration, reported yesterday in the first tabulation under the gasoline rationing program.

In the area, as constituted in December, 151,157 motorists, or 21 per cent, obtained B cards providing for 320 extra miles of driving each month, and 87,672, or 12 per cent, obtained C cards providing larger extra allowances depending on each motorist's requirements for essential purposes.

On the basis of this tabulation, it was estimated that motorists in the Chicago area are using 10,750,000 gallons of gasoline a month under the basic A ration of 16 gallons a month for each motorist. In addition a maximum of 3 million gallons is being consumed each month by motorists also holding B cards.

No estimate could be made of the consumption of gasoline under C cards because no uniform maximum is set on this type of allotment. In normal times motorists in the area would have used approximately 26 million gallons a month on the basis of average annual driving of 6,500 miles.

The metropolitan area in December included Cook county and most of Lake and Du Page counties. On Jan. 1 the area was expanded to include the rest of Lake and Du Page counties and all of Lake county, Indiana.

Basic A card gas rations were issued to 505,181 motorists within Chicago proper, Mulcahy said. Of these, 103,998, or 20.5 per cent, received B cards and 55,144, or 10.8 per cent, received C cards. B and C cards were issued to 31.3 per cent of all the registered car owners in the city.

[Tables showing distribution of gasoline ration cards in the Chicago area may be found on page 4.]

COMPLETE PIPE LINE BUILT TO EASE NEEDS OF OIL STARVED EAST

Norris City, Ill., Jan. 21 (AP).—Laying of the world's largest oil pipe line—a 551 mile 24 inch conduit from Longview in the east Texas oil field to Norris City—was completed today as one of the biggest transportation projects of the war.

Construction crews, rushing work because of the eastern oil shortage, finished the job in less than six months, battling mud and swollen rivers. Floodwaters of the Mississippi tore out 600 feet of pipe last month before the river crossing was made with new and heavier steel as the last link on the line.

In speeding the mammoth project, workmen at times reached a daily average of about six miles of pipe and set a record of 9.93 miles in one day.

The line cost $35,000,000 and will have a capacity of 1,600,000 barrels. It will deliver 300,000 barrels of crude oil daily to rail tank cars here for transshipment to the east. By shortening the present shuttle of tank cars it will make possible a net increase of 120,000 barrels daily in east coast deliveries, partly easing a difficult transportation problem.

Work on a second, 857 mile leg from Norris City to the New York-Philadelphia refining area is under way.

The entire project will cost in excess of $95,000,000.

London Air Raid Shelters Locked—During a Raid!

LONDON, Jan. 21 (AP).—A number of Londoners were unable to get into air raid shelters at the height of yesterday's daylight raid on London because the shelters were locked, it was revealed in the house of commons today. Home Secretary Herbert Morrison explained it thus: "The shelters were kept locked owing to scandalous misuse and damage by citizens."

NATIVES RESCUE 3 OF RICK'S LOST CREW ON ISLAND

Whittaker Finally Gets Real Food—on 23d Day.

[This is the 11th instalment of the story—told here in full for the first time—of Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker and six surviving companions and their three weeks' fight for life against the perils of the equatorial Pacific. It is told by Lt. James C. Whittaker of the army transport command, co-pilot of the Flying Fortress which was crashed into the sea Oct. 21 after running out of fuel.]

BY LT. JAMES C. WHITTAKER,
U. S. Army Air Force Transport Command.
As Told to CHARLES LEAVELLE, of the Chicago Tribune.
[Copyright: 1943: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Our rubber raft beached on the palm covered island at 2 p. m. on Nov. 11. It had been 20 days and 21½ hours since our Flying Fortress had disappeared beneath the waves somewhere southeast of Hawaii, setting adrift Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker and seven others of us.

The big bomber had been sent off its course by erroneous readings of the navigator's octant, damaged in a takeoff accident at Hickam field, Honolulu. Of the eight cast adrift two were with me: Lt. John De Angelis, the navigator, and Staff Sergt. James W. Reynolds, our radio operator. One of our company had died on the 13th day.

One at Death's Door.

We had not seen the other two rafts, carrying Rickenbacker and the three remaining survivors, since the afternoon of Nov. 9, when we went separate ways. We had hoped to be seen by navy scout planes which were patroling the area but which thus far had overlooked our tiny craft.

Just now, however, I was most concerned with De Angelis and Reynolds, both of whom needed immediate medical care. Navy doctors said later that Reynolds was at death's door when they reached him.

As the raft beached I told my companions to pile out. Jimmy crawled out and lay prone. Johnny stepped out, but went down at once.

"What's the matter with you guys?" I asked.

"Try it yourself," said De Angelis.

I stood up in the boat and fell flat on my face. I struggled up and went down again. I stood and fell down eight times before it occurred to me to steady myself with an oar. Hunger, thirst, and the raft's rolling had affected my equilibrium.

The first thing I saw now was fresh water. The rain had filled several pockets in the coral of the island.

Finally Reach Sandy Beach.

Nothing ever tasted better to me. Refreshed, I began to take stock of our new situation. We had not reached the sandy part of the beach. Our raft had grounded on coral, most of which was just under the surface. It was sharp and we were without shoes, so we had to pick our way carefully.

When we finally reached the sand we stopped and gave thanks to God for our deliverance. I previously had given thanks silently for the miracle that got us thru the swirling current and past a school of man eating sharks. Our prayers finished, we began to look for food and shelter. It was now that I fully realized my own condition was none too good.

In 21 days adrift I had had about half an orange and half a dozen raw fish. I could not walk without the oar and my mind seemed to work only with great difficulty. This is best illustrated by the incident of Jimmy's pants.

The buttons had come off and the zipper wouldn't work. The poor kid kept losing them as he crawled along. I thought laboriously of what I could do to remedy the dilemma. Earlier, I had tied my own pants on with string and they were so tied now. But it simply would not occur to me to fix up Jimmy the same way. Johnny couldn't think of anything, either.

My shirt was torn along the sleeves, back, and front and, as I had to have protection from the sun, I punched holes on either side of the rents and laced them with a long piece of vine. I regarded this as a fairly ingenious piece of work. Yet I couldn't think of what to do for Jimmy.

Dine on Coconuts.

Somehow Johnny and I got Jimmy and the raft over to the lee side of the island, which was only a few hundred feet wide. On the ground we found some coconuts. I set about opening these, but they had been on the ground a long time and the hulls were iron hard. In my condition it took me 40 minutes to cut around and thru to the eyes of the nuts. When I missed the eyes more long minutes of cutting were required.

The nuts had only a little milk, but the meat was nourishing. A little later some rodent like animals came to feed at the discarded shells. I crept up and killed several with my sheath knife.

At the first kill the survivors scampered away, but apparently they laughed it off among themselves because they came back. I killed again.

Sleeps Under Raft.

It was our first meat since the night of Oct. 20 at Hickam field. I recrossed the island and filled a Mae West [life jacket] with water from the depressions in the coral. It was dark now and we bedded down, turning the raft over us for shelter. But rain poured down and flooded our bedroom. We got no sleep, but we rested, altho the island seemed to pitch, roll, and heave all night—just as our raft had done.

On the morning of Nov. 12 Johnny found more coconuts and we ate again. As a matter of fact, we ate at intervals all day. I killed more animals. Their flesh wasn't the most appetizing in the world, but it was strengthening. Johnny and I felt much improved. Jimmy, however, continued to look very bad. I worried.

Because of him we decided against trying to move. It wouldn't do any harm to recuperate for a day, we decided. During the morning the navy Kingfisher scout plane roared over, just as it had the evening before. At 3 p. m. we saw five planes, flying in formation. I assumed they were looking for submarines.

On the contrary they were looking for us and for Rickenbacker, his military aide, Col. Hans Adamson, and Pvt. Johnny Bartek, our young engineer on the Flying Fortress.

We learned later that Capt. William T. Cherry, pilot and commander of our plane, had been picked up the afternoon before. He had been alone in a tiny two man raft, which originally had been occupied by Johnny De Angelis and Sergt. Alex Kaczmarzyk, who died on the 13th day.

Eat; Drink Last of Water.

The five plane searching party failed to see us. When night came on we ate again. This time we abandoned the boat and slept on the sand. It rained intermittently and we had a cold, miserable night.

At sunrise we thanked God again for our landfall and drank the last of the water. When I went for more I found the incoming tide had polluted the rain holes with salt. A single plane crossed the island a mile or two south of us and we decided to move in that direction.

We had rowed about half a mile when we spied a native hut on the beach. I thought we had struck a village. It was just a thatched hut, but it looked like lower Manhattan to me. It proved to be deserted and contained only a partly finished boat. Tho I knew this might be a Jap island, I was beyond caring.

Fresh water had collected in depressions hollowed out at the bases of coconut palms and we drank. The water was full of wigglers, but they tasted fine. I would have drunk anything smaller than I at that writing.

At 12:30 p. m. on this 23d day of wandering a plane passed right over us very low. It was only 200 feet up. It went over at such an angle, however, that it would have been impossible for the pilot to see us. I began to wonder if they ever would see us. I went into the hut and fell asleep on the floor. I don't know what awakened me, but at 1:10 p. m. I sat up, fully aroused. Looking out over the shimmering water I saw what at first appeared to be a task force, with destroyers close in and something else farther out.

Natives Come to the Rescue.

I shook Johnny. He raised up and took a look, but apparently the sight didn't register. He lay back down.

"They're just barges," he said.

I stumbled out to the raft and launched it. I was beginning to see better and decided these were new model or Japanese destroyers—I had known nothing like them. About a quarter of a mile out I recognized them. They were outriggers, manned by natives. They had seen me come out and the lead outrigger headed for me. It seemed to be doing about 50 knots.

When it drew near I saw that the features of the head man in the bow were strikingly Japanese in cast. But this was no time for ceremony.

"You Japanese?" I yelled. All the men in the boat shook their heads in unison and I relaxed. They tossed me a line, which I made fast to the raft. I made them understand there were two more men on the island, so we headed in.

Outriggers Race for Island.

The outrigger had four lithe paddlemen and those boys certainly made speed. For the first time in my life I saw a foamy bow wave under a rubber life raft. I actually was apprehensive at first. It seemed to me we were going too fast for safety.

I told the man in the outrigger's stern about our long fast and our present hunger and thirst. He spoke to another who, as the boat touched, sprang out carrying a length of rope and a crude chopper with a metal blade. By means of the rope he ran up a palm tree and knocked down some ripe coconuts.

By the time we reached the hut he was there with the nuts and had lopped off the tops, fashioning them into rude drinking gourds. We downed the milk and ate the rich white meat. There was about a pint of milk in each.

Greeted by Whole Village.

De Angelis and Reynolds were stretched out in the outrigger and we started for the principal village. They towed me and the raft. It was a sizeable settlement, across a lagoon and hidden from view of most of the island. We were met by the entire population. The women were clad only in lava-lavas [waist clothes] and smiles. All that pulchritude, and I could think of nothing but water.

It developed that a friendly power maintained a radio station and small garrison on the island. Shortly before, a navy plane had dropped a note asking them to be on the lookout for us. That's why the natives were out in force.

I remember the women weeping at our emaciated condition. Our beards were long and unkempt. Jimmy Reynolds looked like a dying man.

Members of the garrison arrived soon and Jimmy and De Angelis were given fruit juices and put to bed in the command hut. They asked what we wanted to eat and I suggested boiling down two or three chickens to make a rich broth. This was done, under supervision of a man from the garrison.

Then I had my first bath with soap in more than three weeks. Afterwards I sat down to wait for dinner. And it was torture. The aroma of that chicken filled the air. It was all I could do to keep from grabbing one of the birds out of the pot and rending it with my teeth.

The reason I didn't, I guess, was that I was too worried about Jimmy. He needed the best of medical attention and quickly. But even as I worried, radio signals were crackling thru the air. Our friends of the garrison were on the job.

INQUIRY ORDERED INTO OVERLOADED U. S. PAY ROLLS

Man Power Squandered, Say Congressmen.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 21.—Members of the house today denounced the overloading of federal pay rolls at a time when the nation is straining its financial and man power resources in the greatest war in history. A resolution providing for an inquiry into government employment practices by the civil service committee was approved without a dissenting vote.

It was one of four investigations approved during the day as the congressmen neared the end of the first busy week of regular business. In all cases, the inquiries were begun in previous sessions. An investigation of the federal communications commission, approved several days ago, makes a total of five house probes which have been authorized by the new congress so far.

Continue Contract Probes.

Under other resolutions adopted by the house, inquiries into war contracts will be continued by the military affairs and naval affairs committees, and the merchant marine committee will proceed with its similar work on merchant ship construction. Beside continuation of work of the Dies committee on un-American activities, other inquiries for which resolutions are pendng would continue investigations of small business problems, defense migration, and airplane accidents, making a total of nine. Demands for others already are being heard.

A request for a 10th probe—an investigation of the department of justice in connection with its anti-trust suit against the Associated Press—was introduced today and the leaders have promised early hearings preparatory to bringing it to the floor.

The attack upon administration employment practices was led by Rep. Charles A. Halleck [R., Ind.] who asserted that the government has become the greatest squanderer of its precious man power of any enterprise in the country. He said there have been tremendous increases in federal employment with many new pay rollers unable even to find out what they are supposed to do to earn their pay.

Questions Saposs Employment.

Rep. Clare E. Hoffman [R., Mich.] demanded to know whether the inquiry would cover the case of Dr. David J. Saposs, former economist for the national labor relations board, who has obtained a new federal job after being forced off the government pay roll by congress more than two years ago.

"The pay rollers aren't needed nearly as much in Washington as they are in factories and on the farms," asserted Rep. John M. Robsion [R., Ky.].

CARPENTER DIES AT WORK.

Alfred Johnson, 44 years old, 7439 Drexel avenue, a carpenter, died of a heart attack yesterday while working on the roof of a defense plant under construction in Norwood Park township.

35 DIE IN CRASH OF U. S. PLANE IN SOUTH AMERICA

26 Passengers, 9 Crewmen Aboard; None Survives.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 21 (AP).—Thirty-five persons, the largest number ever killed in an American plane accident, died in the crash in Dutch Guiana of a transport plane under contract to the army, Maj. Gen. Harold L. George of the air transport command announced today.

The civil aeronautics board and the aeronautical chamber of commerce both said their records listed the South American crash on Jan. 15 as the worst to an American airplane. The heaviest previous toll listed in a plane accident was 25 killed at Lovettsville, Va., on Aug. 31, 1940. Among those killed in that accident was Sen. Ernest Lundeen of Minnesota.

26 Passengers Aboard.

Twenty-six passengers and nine crewmen were on the huge plane which fell in the Dutch colony.

The dead were listed as:

Knight, Maj. Eric M., Pleasant Valley, Pa.
Gallagher, Capt. Basil D., Plainfield, N. J.
Seeman, Capt. Albert L., Seattle, Wash.
Campbell, 1st Lt. Charles W., Salt Lake City, Utah.
Martin, 1st Lt. Donald C., Ann Arbor, Mich.
Barnhart, 1st Lt. Peter D., Atlanta, Ga.
Walker, 2d Lt. Robert B., Seattle, Wash.
Girling, 2d Lt. Thomas G., Los Angeles, Cal.
Mattee, 2d Lt. Carl A., Niles, O.
Solomon, 2d Lt. Max, Turners Falls, Mass.
Shively, Flight Officer Charles S., North Bend, Ore.
Baughman, Staff Sergt. Russell A., Whittaker, Pa.
Stoflet, Staff Sergt. Roger M.
Roberts, Staff Sergt. Ellis H. Jr., Bonham, Tex.
Wylie, Staff Sergt. Heyward O., Decatur, Ill.
Roberts, Sergt. Charles S. Jr., Bowman, Ga.
Spahr, Sergt. Oscar, Miami Beach, Fla.

All these were members of the United States army. The civilian passengers were:

Foxworth, P. E., 36, assistant director of the federal bureau of investigation, in charge of the New York City office.
Hodson, William, New York City, on a special mission for the state department.
Haberfeld, H. D., 30, special agent of the Buffalo, N. Y., office of the FBI.
Dorrance, Dr. S. S., Alexandria, Va., flight surgeon for Transcontinental and Western Air, Inc., Albany, N. Y.
Lewis, Morris, information specialist, office of the chief of special services, war department, New York City.
Brown, C. H., representative of the California-Arabian Oil company.
Henryson, O. E. of the state department, Washington; Story City, Ia.
Seeger, James W., civilian employé, signal corps, Fort Monmouth, N. J.

Members of the crew, all civilian employés of the air line operating the plane, were:

Dally, Capt. Benjamin Hart Jr., Mission, Kas.
Wagner, 1st Officer Theodore M., Glen Echo Heights, Md.
Bacon, 2d Officer Everett Lee, Falls Church, Va.
Voss, 1st Navigator Jason E., Alexandria, Va.
Kane, 2d Navigator James M., Washington, D. C.
Quisenberry, Flight Engineer Clyde E., Alexandria, Va.
La Frank, 1st Radio Operator Leonard, Alexandria, Va.
Moriarity, 2d Radio Operator Leo J., Alexandria, Va.
Dempf, Flight Purser Eugene, Brookmont, Md.
Knight, who recently reëntered army service, was best known for his novels "This Above All" and "The Flying Yorkshireman." He served in the Canadian army in the World war and later became a newspaper cartoonist and writer in Philadelphia.

Hodson, New York City welfare commissioner on leave to assist Herbert H. Lehman, federal director of foreign relief and rehabilitation, was a native of Minneapolis, Minn.

Former Newspaper Man.

Capt. Gallagher, 42, was a New York and Indianapolis [Ind.] newspaper man and publicity representative before accepting his army commission this month. He served on the staffs of the old New York World, World-Telegram and Post, and the Indianapolis Times.

There were no survivors of the crash, which Gen. George said occurred in a remote section of the Guiana coast.

The plane was flying south, having left this country about a week ago, George said, and all those aboard were on their way overseas, some probably going to North Africa.

The plane was operated by an air line which George did not identify, but which is one of the American commercial lines operating planes for the air transport command.

PILOT SERVED IN CHICAGO.

Capt. Benjamin Hart Dally Jr., pilot of the transport plane which crashed in Dutch Guiana killing all 35 persons aboard, was an air line pilot of wide experience, officials of Transcontinental and Western Air, Inc., said last night. Dally was a flight superintendent at the Chicago airport from 1937 to 1940, when he was transferred to the Kansas City office with the same duties.

While working in Chicago for T. W. A. he lived at 336 South Ninth avenue, La Grange, with his wife and small daughter. He was 35 years old.

First Officer Theodore M. Wagner, co-pilot, was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph M. Wagner of 215 West Center street, Hinsdale. Last October he was married to Jarvis Schafer of Hinsdale.

JAPS BROADCAST FAIRY TALES FOR YANKS IN ALASKA

Life isn't always stern and severe for the Yanks in faraway Dutch Harbor, Alaska. There's the geisha girl—at least that's what the boys call her—who broadcasts in English nightly from Tokio.

Corp. Raymond Poklacki.

And she tells the strangest stories, said Corp. Raymond Poklacki, 25 years old, 3754 Magnolia avenue, at home on furlough for the first time since he enlisted in the army 29 months ago. He has been in Alaska the last 18 months.

"Some nights this Japanese girl broadcasts about the terrific hand to hand fighting in Dutch Harbor," said Corp. Poklacki. "Of course, her Japs always win.

"It's a grand laugh for us, sitting at the radios in Dutch Harbor listening to this propaganda."

MERCHANTS COMPILE SALES TAX TABLE FOR INCOME DEDUCTIONS

How much sales tax did I pay last year? The Chicago Retail Merchants' association has submitted a table of average sales tax payments by individuals with incomes ranging from 1 to 6 thousand dollars. Sales tax is deductible from income tax returns for the first time this year.

The chart showing average sales taxes paid in one year, follows:

Income—	Single.	Married.	Marr., 1 child.	Marr., 2 children.
1,500	12	$17	$22	$25
2,000	16	23	30	33
2,500	20	26	34	38
3,000	24	32	41	46
3,500	28	37	48	54
4,000	37	43	55	61
4,500	42	48	62	69
5,000	51	54	69	77
5,500	56	59	76	84
6,000	61	64	83	92

The figures are only average and persons wishing to make an exact calculation should get a sales receipt after each purchase and save those receipts, the association said.

FEW ADDITIONAL CUTS PLANNED IN CIVILIAN GOODS

Nelson Says Some in WPB Hold Slashes Excessive.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 21.—Donald M. Nelson, chairman of the war production board, said today that few additional cuts are contemplated in the supply of civilian goods and that some WPB officials believe the output for civilians has already been trimmed too far.

Joseph Weiner.

Nelson confirmed reports that plans are being discussed for transferring the office of civilian supply, which is supposed to look after requirements for the home front, out of WPB.

It has been reported that James F. Byrnes, stabilization director, believes WPB should concentrate entirely on war production.

In the opinion of many experts, the OCS, a WPB division first headed by Leon Henderson and now by Joseph Weiner, Russian born immigrant, has concentrated too much on slashing civilian goods production.

Nelson said today that increasing emphasis will be placed on the simplification of many consumer goods lines, such as shoes and other clothing items. He added there are three other major problems confronting WPB as it starts its second year of operation:

1. Increased production and better distribution of component items, such as valves, instruments, and machine parts, which are threatening to bottleneck the construction of synthetic rubber, high octane gasoline, and other facilities.

2. Better distribution of raw materials.

3. Concentration of the output of some lines in a relatively few plants, leaving the other plants free to devote their facilities entirely to war goods.

CEILINGS PLACED ON COFFEE MIXES AND SUBSTITUTES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 21.—Seven coffee substitutes and coffee compounds which are expected to appear on the market shortly, were placed under price ceilings today by the office of price administration.

OPA officials said retail prices for the new lines, whose ingredients vary from soy beans to molasses, will vary from 15 to 31 cents a pound, depending on the product.

They also explained that housewives buying a compound containing any coffee at all will be required to surrender coupons from ration book No. 1 on the same basis as for the purchase of pure coffee. Substitutes containing no coffee are exempt from rationing, however.

RAIL DELIVERIES OF GASOLINE TO EAST PROHIBITED

Washington, D. C., Jan. 21 (AP).—The petroleum administration for war today banned railroad tank car delivery of gasoline to the Atlantic seaboard to make more tank cars available for deliveries to replenish supplies of fuel oil in that area.

The order left 17 east coast states and the District of Columbia dependent upon gasoline deliveries by pipeline, barge, truck, "or other means," possibly sea-going tankers.

It is effective immediately, except that deliveries now in transit by tank car may be completed.

The order was supplemented by another further curbing the eastern pleasure driving ban. Gasoline was prohibited for use in gasoline powered boats.

Deputy Petroleum Administrator Ralph K. Davies said that deliveries by other than tank cars and the production of ordinary motor fuel by eastern refineries as a by-product of aviation gasoline and other war products manufacture would provide sufficient gasoline on the Atlantic seaboard for civilians' essential driving.

Officer Has Two Reasons to Be Glad He's Home Again

INCLUDE CANNED BABY FOOD IN OPA POINT RATIONING

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 21.—Most canned baby foods will be included in the point rationing of canned and processed fruits and vegetables scheduled to start next month, the office of price administration announced today.

Harold B. Rowe.

Rationed baby foods will include strained or chopped foods made of fruits, vegetables, or meats put up in sealed cans or glass jars. Those exempt from immediate rationing include canned milk, canned milk formulas, and prepared cereals.

Seek to Bar Misuse.

Harold B. Rowe, OPA director of food rationing, said the inclusion of baby foods does not necessarily indicate that supplies are short.

"If baby foods were not rationed they might be bought extensively as a substitute for rationed canned foods," he explained.

The list of baby foods to be rationed includes:

Strained vegetables, such as carrots and string beans, as well as vegetables or tomato soup and vegetable combinations.

Strained meat and meat broths in combination with vegetables, such as vegetables with bacon, beef, or lamb, and beef broth with barley.

Include Strained Fruits.

Strained fruits, whether separate fruits or fruit combinations, and puddings and custards to which fruit has been added.

Chopped or "junior" foods, including creamed chopped vegetables, tomatoes and rice, and vegetables combined with meats.

PROTEST RUBBER EXPORTS IN FACE OF NEED AT HOME

Demand BEW Head Keep Shipments at Minimum.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 21.—Milo Perkins, global New Dealer, was cautioned before a senate subcommittee today to consider domestic needs carefully in connection with the generous rubber exports directed by his board of economic warfare from the United States to South America.

Milo Perkins.

Perkins and E. R. Stettinius Jr., lend-lease administrator, were witnesses behind doors closed at their request with an explanation that secrecy was required to keep useful information from the enemy.

Sen. Guy M. Gillette [D., Ia.], chairman of the investigators, made public parts of the testimony following the session. He included the fact that most of our rubber exports, heretofore reported publicly as thousands of tons of crude, actually are thousands of completed tires containing this tonnage of crude.

Get No Red-Jap Facts.

The senator said the committee failed to learn anything about a reported trade between Russia and Japan, with the Russians receiving rubber and the Japs getting iron, but asserted this phase of the inquiry is to be pursued further.

In reference to exports to South America, a BEW enterprise, Gillette said he cautioned Perkins that domestic motor transportation needs must not be disregarded in these deals. Figures on the amount of these exports were suppressed, but previous information indicates the exports totaled more than was allowed domestic private transportation, aside from commercial operations.

"I told him," Gillette said in response to reporters' questions, "that the public of the United States has been called upon to bear a heavy burden in curtailments and restrictions on freight and passenger transportation.

Stresses Home Needs.

"I appreciate the reluctance of our South American allies to curtail along some lines."

However, he added, every tire "that is exported means just one less tire for our use at home. Mr. Perkins said that BEW was careful to see that the exports were essential. He said that 90 to 95 per cent of the South American rubber exports were truck tires and that the trucks were used in developing resources, such as metal mines, to produce war materials for the allied nations.

Stettinius Gives Figures.

"It's my contention, and I said so, that truck tires are needed in the United States to produce food, and that food is every bit as vital as some metals and chemicals from South America. The committee didn't feel that South America should be cut off from United States tires, but the senators definitely indicated that home needs should be given proper regard in allotting rubber among the allies."

Stettinius testified that under lend-lease the equivalent of 60,000 tons of crude rubber were exported last year, almost all in the form of tires on vehicles and combat equipment, mainly to Great Britain and Russia. He said none was for civilian use and that 1943 requirements would about equal 1942's.

Altho Perkins' testimony on this point was suppressed, previous evidence on BEW operations placed the amount of crude in the form of tires to be exported to 19 Latin American countries this year at between 3,200 and 3,500 tons. This may be compared with 3,000 tons which Col. Bradley Dewey, chief technician for Rubber Administrator William M. Jeffers, listed as the 1943 allotment for private domestic transportation.

Jeffers said this allotment was a drop from a normal 250,000 tons.

Still Plan to Call Hopkins.

Gillette told reporters that the committee has not abandoned yesterday's plan to summon Harry Hopkins, special assistant to President Roosevelt in charge of lend-lease operations. No date has been set for his appearance.

Donald M. Nelson, war production chairman, is to testify Tuesday in this renewal of the senatorial investigation which was inspired by reports that the rubber shortage will face a crisis this fall.

The committee is dissatisfied with information received from administrative sources, and is launching a field investigation, independent of the bureaus, in an attempt to get pertinent facts on production, reports of bickering for commercial advantage, and reports of shady deals.

FOUND HANGED IN HOME.

NO. 4 GASOLINE COUPON IS VALID TODAY; NO. 3 DEAD

Motorists can start using the No. 4 coupons in their A gasoline ration books this morning, Michael F. Mulcahy, Chicago metropolitan area OPA director, said yesterday. There are 8 of these coupons, good for 4 gallons each in the next two months.

Mulcahy said motorists must destroy all No. 3 coupons, which expired yesterday. Gasoline dealers who accept the No. 3 coupons are violating the gasoline rationing regulation.

Gasoline dealers reported no noticeable increase in sales yesterday by motorists who desired to fill their tanks with unused No. 3 coupons before they became worthless. Some cars were stalled in snow drifts or in snowbound garages and could not be driven to gasoline stations.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 21.—A resolution calling for a congressional investigation of the department of justice as an outgrowth of the government's anti-trust suit against the Associated Press was filed in the house today by Rep. Paul Shafer [R., Mich.].

Rep. Paul Shafer.

The measure asks that the inquiry be made by the judiciary committee. It was referred to the rules committee thru which it must pass before being brought on the floor for house consideration. If approved by the house the way would be clear for the judiciary committee to begin work at once.

It is the first proposal for a major investigation of a top ranking executive department since the election last fall in which sweeping Republican gains were interpreted as a rebuke to the administration's policies, both domestic and foreign.

Claim Suit Aimed at Press.

Filing of the Associated Press suit is widely regarded as an attack upon the freedom of the press, the resolution states. An inquiry is necessary to demonstrate the soundness of this belief, it continues, in order that the American people will be free to devote their energies toward winning the war without fear that their fundamental liberties at home are being threatened.

Under terms of the resolution, the judiciary committee would inquire into the circumstances preceding the filing of the suit and actions of government agents and private individuals and organizations which might have a bearing on the justice department's move.

Early Action Promised.

Chairman Hatton W. Sumners [D., Tex.], of the judiciary committee, said his group will be "glad" to make the investigation, if the house approves the resolution, adding: "And we'll do a good job."

Chairman Adolph Sabath [D., Ill.], of the rules committee, said he would order hearings before his group "as soon as possible."

Rep. Hamilton Fish [R., N. Y.] ranking minority member of the rules committee, promised:

"The minority side will insist upon early hearings. This is an important question. We must give it full consideration in the interests of the American people who are vitally concerned."

Many members of congress have expressed indignation over the government charges of monopoly against the Associated Press and there have been reports from various quarters that a congressional investigation would be demanded.

The Inquiring Camera Girl

BY FREIDA ZYLSTRA.

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by The Tribune. Today's question was submitted by Mrs. A. Targ, Cleveland Heights, O.]

THE QUESTION.

On what occasion did you pretend to be brave when actually you were frightened?

WHERE ASKED.

The Chicago building, 5 West Madison street.

THE ANSWERS.

Anthony Serritella, laborer, 210 West 23d place—If I revealed my fear too much I knew I wouldn't be much of a consolation to my very sick wife. I was frightened because she was so ill it was necessary for me to give her a blood transfusion. I pretended all the time that I wasn't too disturbed, but actually I was.

George H. Fairley, carpenter, 1218 North Mayfield avenue—During the last war I was a carpenter on a ship. We were working in the hold when a good sized fire broke out. I wanted to run, but I had to stay right on the job and act brave. All the other boys did the same and we got the fire under control.

Ralph W. Snell, office clerk, 3207 North Cicero avenue—Any other time I probably would have broken down and admitted how scared I was, but not on this, my honeymoon trip. We started skidding in the mountains; when I put on the brakes we whirled completely around. I said nothing, fearing my voice would give me away.

William J. Kent, policeman, 7155 Yale avenue—I did my best to act bravely as the bullets whizzed by the first time I put on my uniform. As I was walking three bandits jumped into their car and started to shoot. I was certainly frightened, but I managed a couple of return shots.

Seymour Turobitz, student, 1405 South Kostner avenue—Every time my little sister and I listen to mystery stories over the radio I try to console her and tell her not to be too frightened. I find it soothes my own nerves; when she wants the lights turned on again I act very brave.

June Hayden, Midwest club—Whenever I had to stand up and give a speech in school I was as shaky as could be, but I'd carry right on. To cover up my fear I'd try to talk louder and faster, so toward the end of the speech I must have sounded like an auctioneer.

HOPKINS DINNER ONLY $5 A PLATE? CAPITAL LAUGHS

BY WALTER TROHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 21.—From the halls of congress to hotel kitchens, the capital today was enjoying a hearty laugh over the attempt of newspaper supporters of the New Deal to pass off as a $5 buffet snack the $40 a plate dinner at which Mrs. Harry Hopkins, wife of the White House star boarder, made her social debut.

One administration newspaper reported sending out several "investigators" to find out what actually took place at the banquet reported by THE TRIBUNE, and announced it was presenting its readers with "the straight dope."

As the first step, the paper said its investigators sought out Bernard Baruch, capitalist and New Deal adviser, who was host at the party.

According to this newspaper's story, Baruch expressed himself as astounded that his party was seized upon for anti-administration mud slinging and said that no Tribune representative ever had interviewed him concerning the facts of the story.

Calls It Mrs. Hopkins' Idea.

What the newspaper's "investigators" failed to mention is that Mr. Baruch sought out a Tribune executive after the story appeared, not to complain against the facts printed but to explain that the dinner really was Mrs. Hopkins' dinner, not his. Mr. Baruch said that he merely had footed the bill. He made no effort to pass off the dinner as tantamount to a mere workingman's snack for Harry [Hardship] Hopkins.

Mrs. Hopkins picked the menu, which numbered 35 items from caviar to demitasse, invited the guests, arranged for dancing, and took care of other details. Mr. Baruch wanted it understood that the idea was not his and that he had left all details to Mrs. Hopkins because she asked him to give her a party when he had informed her she could pick her own wedding gift from him.

Mr. Baruch gave substantially the same information to a Tribune reporter. He had no quarrel with the facts, but was anxious to emphasize that he was not the originator of what has been described in congress as a "feast of Belshazzar."

One New Deal paper said the "investigators" found that the dinner actually cost $5 a plate. Chefs and head waiters of leading capital hotels said that serving caviar in a bowl with trimmings wound eat up most of that sum, as would serving of terrapin, not to mention four kinds of beef, lobster, turkey, three kinds of chicken, trout, and a half dozen desserts, including socle of raspberry ice.

The function may have been a free lunch to "Hardship Harry" and his 60 or so guests, but it was generally acknowledged it cost more than the $3,000 amount Baruch confided to intimates.

Cite Seating Chart.

One New Deal paper's story said that THE TRIBUNE did not mention that the dinner was held buffet style. Evidently the "investigators" failed to ascertain that there was a seating chart, and that each guest was given a flower as he came in and told to match the flower with bouquets on the table.

The "investigators" also failed to discover that guests had only to file by the loaded table and signify their choice of items and that waiters then carried the loaded plates to the tables.

The "investigators" apparently did not think it worthy of mention that the champagne was of 1928 vintage, which according to an official publication of the wine and food society of London, New York, Chicago, and other cities, is one of the two best years since 1919.

MILE OF DIMES THIEF SENTENCED.

John Gary, 21 years old, a Negro, 4833 Calumet avenue, was sentenced to a year in the Bridewell and fined $100, and his brother, Jesse, 19, was held to the grand jury yesterday by Judge Gibson E. Gorman in Boys' court for attempting to steal $400 from the Mile of Dimes booth at Jackson boulevard and State street Monday night.

RED DRIVE NEARS '41 NAZI LINE ON VORONEZH FRONT

Town Near Kursk Taken; Other Armies Advance.

LONDON, Jan. 22 [Friday]—(AP).—Red army troops striking straight 151 west below Voronezh have reached a point 85 miles southeast of Kursk, threatening the entire Nazi 1941 front extending from central Russia to the Sea of Azov, according to a midnight communique as broadcast by Moscow and heard here by the soviet monitor.

The Red army already has two columns pushing toward Kharkov, south of Kursk; another threatening Voroshilovgrad, and several more menacing Rostov, German communications hub for south Russia.

The latest Russian communique announced the capture of Golofyeevka, only 10 miles south of the communications center of Staraya-Oskol, and 85 miles from Kursk. Sini Libyagi, 100 miles east of Kursk and 35 miles southwest of Voronezh, also was taken.

Slay 1,400 at Stalingrad.

In the Nazi trap before Stalingrad, which today entered its 151st day of siege, the Russians reported 1,400 Germans were killed.

Earlier a special communique announced the seizure of Voroshilovsk, in the Caucasus 40 miles east of Armavir, communications key to the Maikop oil fields. The midnight communique told of the capture of several other localities near Voroshilovsk. Other soviet troops driving toward Armavir are 50 miles southeast of that rail junction.

Russian troops already had been reported within 79 miles of the industrial center of Kharkov, below Kursk. Another group, making a 50 mile penetration of the eastern Ukraine, was operating 115 miles southeast of Kharkov.

Three Drives Peril Rostov.

Other columns pushed to within 20 miles of the great industrial center of the Donetz basin, Voroshilovgrad.

In the three way drive on Rostov, soviet troops were about 75 miles north of the Caucasian gateway city, 60 miles to the east, and to the southeast were threatening Salsk, rail junction 100 miles away. One Red army was only 15 miles from Salsk after having taken Proletarskaya.

The Russians were reported fighting on the outskirts of a "large populated place," which may be Salsk.

The communique told of wiping out hundreds of Hungarians and capturing great quantities of equipment. It suggested the Russians were meeting their stiffest resistance in the Rostov area and the Caucasus.

[The German communique said there was "continuous hard fighting south of Lake Ladoga," where the Russians are battling to widen their supply corridor to Leningrad. It also said axis shock troops "were successfully employed" in local combat on the central front and south of Lake Ilmen. The Germans said the Russians were repulsed along the southern sectors. Trapped troops at Stalingrad were reported to have stood firmly against mass assaults.]

YANKEE FLYERS JOIN IN SMASH AT NAZI AIRDROMES

Help R. A. F. Hit North France and Holland.

BULLETIN.

LONDON, Jan. 22 (Friday)—(AP).—All German radio stations, except those at Breslau and Vienna, went off the air suddenly early today, usually a sign that the R. A. F. is raiding.

LONDON, Jan. 21 (AP).—Swarms of R. A. F. fighters and bombers, including two squadrons of the United States army air forces, swept northern France and the Lowlands today, raiding Caen, Cherbourg, Flushing, and an airdrome near Le Havre. Three German planes were destroyed.

The American planes were part of an escort for Ventura medium bombers and Bostons which bombed the German air fields at Caen and the Tricqueville airport near Le Havre. Other Bostons battered the docks at Cherbourg and at Flushing, Holland. Le Havre and Cherbourg are major French channel ports and Caen lies inland about midway between them.

Hunt Nine in School Débris.

Rescue squads worked into the second night to locate nine missing children in the wreckage of the London school where 44 persons were killed yesterday by a German raider's bomb.

A rescue worker who climbed to the top floor of the smashed school found three children about 5 years old. Two were dead. The third, a girl with an injured arm, was sitting on the floor more than 24 hours after the bombing.

Runs Right to Her Mother.

"It's all right; I can walk," she said, and, scrambling down to the ground, ran to a waiting crowd and found her mother.

The air ministry disclosed that the new Hawker Typhoon, a faster fighter with longer range and better armor, has come into service and destroyed five of the 14 Nazi craft shot down in the defense of London yesterday. The Typhoon makes more than 400 miles an hour and is armed with cannon and machine guns. Its 24 cylinder Napier-Sabre engine generates 2,400 horsepower. Pilots say it can "climb like a rocket, going almost straight up with a full warload."

OVER-ALL PICTURE OF WAR IS BRIGHT, PATTERSON SAYS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 21 (AP).—The surging Russian offensives from the Baltic to the Caucasus may hurl the Germans back half way across the Ukraine to a winter line along the Dnieper river, Undersecretary of War Robert P. Patterson forecast today.

In a general review of the war, Patterson found the outlook "decidedly bright" for the allied nations on all battle fronts, the continued Russian successes being "particularly heartening." These other phases of the global war also were discussed by the undersecretary:

Ship construction now has passed the rate of sinkings by enemy submarines. However, German underseas raiders continue to take a heavy toll, creating a heavy drain both on ships and supplies. Greater emphasis is being placed on anti-submarine warfare and the protection of shipping, he said.

Believe Tripoli's Fall Near.

German Marshal Erwin Rommel's forces apparently intend to abandon Tripoli without a major effort to defend the Libyan capital against the advancing British 8th army and "it would seem very plain that the fall of Tripoli is only a matter of hours."

In Tunisia, there has been a lull in ground fighting due chiefly to bad weather, but considerable air activity has found the allied planes still maintaining a 2 to 1 combat advantage over axis aircraft. The French forces have been aiding materially on the Tunisian front, and political troubles in North Africa "have in no way interfered with the military effort of the French against the common enemy."

Papuan Fight Almost Over.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's forces in New Guinea have almost completed the Papuan campaign, in which the Japanese army of about 15,000 men was almost annihilated. Allied losses have been comparatively small with preliminary indications that Australian casualties were somewhat greater than the American.

In his analysis of the campaigns, Patterson said the evident hope of the Germans was to establish a winter line as deep in Russian territory as possible, and one objective of last summer's offensive "was undoubtedly to secure a firm line along the Volga."

ARMY REPLACES MARINE FORCES ON GUADALCANAL

Original Invaders Given a Well Earned Rest.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 21 (AP).—The marines who wrested Guadalcanal from the Japs back in August and hung on to it triumphantly thru five months of bitter fighting have now turned it over to the army, officials announced today.

The navy in a communique and Undersecretary of War Robert P. Patterson at a press conference disclosed that Maj. Gen. Alexander A. Vandegrift of the marine corps had turned over command to Maj. Gen. Alexander M. Patch Jr., 53 year old infantryman with 29 years of army service.

The navy also announced that bombers from the Solomons had damaged a Japanese destroyer off Cape Friendship at the easternmost tip of Bougainville, and that eight enemy fighters were shot down in another raid on surface vessels in the Shortland Island area.

Forecasts Hard Fight.

Patterson forecast additional hard fighting, saying that "while our position in the Solomon Islands has materially improved, it is probable that the Japanese will make further efforts to recover lost territory there."

He paid high tribute to those dogged leathernecks who battled day and night for months against the Japanese. Now they are en route to a well earned rest.

They spent more time in the 24-hour-a-day battle of Guadalcanal than ever was spent in day-to-day fighting by any American unit, navy men believe. The first division of the A. E. F. spent 223 days at the front in the first World war, but that time included a training period and some battle lulls.

Few Lulls for Marines.

But there had been few lulls for the marines since they leaped into the surf and raced onto the narrow beaches of Guadalcanal Aug. 7. They battered the enemy back from the air field the Japanese were constructing and took it for their own. Vandegrift, who is 55 years old, moved onto the island with his men and has lived, worked, played, and fought with them since.

Their life on Guadalcanal—and on nearby Tulagi—has been tough. This was disclosed in letters from members of the group and from Vandegrift himself. Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, back from an inspection trip to the South Pacific, said that on Guadalcanal he found men living and fighting in "hell holes of mud."

ALLIED BOMBERS BLAST CRUISER, 3 JAP CARGO SHIPS

ALLIED HDQ., Australia, Jan. 22 [Friday]—(AP).—In two widely separated attacks on Japanese ships, allied bombers yesterday hit a cruiser and at least three merchant vessels while ground forces, operating in pouring rain, continued the final stages of mopping up around Sanananda, New Guinea.

At Ambon harbor in the Dutch East Indies, a cruiser was left listing and smoking heavily and a 5,000 ton merchant ship was hit by a formation of Liberators, all of which returned after downing 2 of 20 Japanese fighters and damaging others. Two other ships were hit at Rabaul, New Britain Island.

In the Ambon raid, 20 Japanese planes intercepted the bombers which shot down 2 and damaged others. All of the allied planes returned.

In the vicinity of Wewak, New Guinea, the allied communique reported a thrilling air fight in which 4 heavy bombers were set upon by 25 Jap fighter planes. The battle lasted nearly an hour during which 12 Japs were shot down and 6 other damaged without the loss of an allied plane.

Without Painful Backache

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

INCREASE QUOTA ON MACHINERY FOR FARM USE

Raise Steel Allotment After Protests.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 21.—An increase of 36 per cent in steel to be used for making farm machinery in the first quarter of this year was granted today by the war production board.

The increased quota will permit production at 31 per cent of the 1940 level, instead of 23 per cent as originally fixed by WPB. The boost was granted by WPB following widespread protests.

Charges Experts Ignored.

The Truman committee investigating the conduct of the war earlier today warned that because of the 23 per cent restriction and the shortage of farm labor, "America faces the grave danger of not reaching its food production goals for 1943 and 1944, instead of obtaining increases required by war-time demands."

The committee charged the WPB with settling farm quotas thru a formula "developed for it by a professor of agricultural engineering," and with ignoring the advice of farm experts.

Donald M. Nelson, WPB chairman, replying to the Truman committee report, said the farm equipment program "should be and is being enlarged."

Farmers to Get Loans.

Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard today announced that 200 to 225 million dollars in easy credit is being made available to farmers for use in increasing 1943 food production.

He also said a nation-wide appeal will be made for volunteers—women, children, old persons, business men, every able bodied person—to help farmers in food production.

Peritonitis Fatal to Baby After Appendix Removal

An autopsy performed yesterday at the Mount Sinai hospital revealed that peritonitis caused the death Wednesday of the 18 day old son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Magnus of 1901 Humboldt boulevard, upon whom an appendectomy had been performed when the child was only three days old. Physicians said the child, because of its extreme youth, had too little resistance to overcome the infection.

OPA'S RED TAPE BRANDED THREAT TO POTATO CROP

Potato growers in the south and southwest are being driven out of business by the mass of conflicting regulations and orders forced on them by "so-called experts" in the office of price administration, Austin E. Anson, manager of the Southern Vegetable Growers association, said yesterday. Consumers face the loss of more than 150 million pounds of potatoes produced annually in these areas, he said, unless the OPA offers some relief.

Anson spoke at the national convention of the United Fresh Fruit and Vegetable association meeting in the Drake hotel. He directed his statements to representatives of the OPA who were conducting a clinic on ceiling price regulations for the potato growers.

Under the ceiling price set by the OPA the southern growers stand to lose 27½ cents on every bag reaching the shipping point, Anson said. This does not take into account the potatoes lost thru frost and damage, he said, nor does it include the extra cost of administering the mass of reports and forms required.

MOTION TO DISMISS BRINGS TRIAL DELAY FOR GAMBLING SQUAD

The civil service commission yesterday continued the retrial of Capt. Martin E. McCormick and three sergeants of the old gambling squad when their attorney, Thomas A. Sheehan, filed a motion requesting the charges be dismissed. They are charged with failing to suppress handbooks. The sergeants are Thomas F. Lee, Fred L. Trauth, and James E. Kehoe.

Sheehan's motion argued the commission is barred by law from hearing the case again because the charges are identical to those on which the four were tried last July. A commission, since replaced, exonerated them of the charges at that trial. The new hearing was continued to Feb. 3 to allow Sheehan and Carl H. Lundquist, assistant corporation counsel, to file briefs.

Four men, who were found in alleged handbooks at 179 North Wells street and 547 South Wells street Wednesday, were fined a total of $35 by Judge Frank E. Donoghue.

RAILROADS ARE HAULING WARTIME FREIGHT AT LOWEST COST PER MILE SINCE 1918

NEARLY everybody knows that the railroads today are hauling the largest volume of freight in their history.

But few know at what low cost!

For every ton of freight the railroads move one mile they receive an average of 0.927¢—less than a cent a mile.

That is less than what they received for the same job in 1941—less than in any year going back to 1918.

We think this is the kind of news the American people like to hear.

You may wonder how in times like these the railroads can render such service at so low a cost, for surely, as with other industries, they must be paying higher wages and more for practically everything they need to "keep 'em rolling."

Yes, railroad wage levels are up 14%.

That is because in December, 1941, as a result of mediation and the intervention of the Special Presidential Board, there was an increase in railroad labor wage rates that "upped" railroad payrolls about $400,000,000 a year.

In addition, materials the railroads use now cost 18 per cent more—an increase of approximately $110,000,000 a year.

To offset partly higher wage and material costs, the Government granted the railroads in February and March, 1942, freight rate increases averaging 4.7% and a passenger fare increase averaging 9%.

This was expected to return about $350,000,000 a year to the railroads.

But emergencies and factors of war have more than cancelled the aid the railroads were expected to receive from slightly increased freight and passenger rates.

For example—

When the submarine menace caused a diversion to rail of certain bulk commodities that formerly came by water—such as oil and petroleum products, sugar and rubber—the railroads voluntarily reduced their rates for such commodities in order to keep their cost low to the public. They also passed reduced rates on to ammunition, too.

The cut in rates on oil for the East Coast area alone amounts to $158,000,000 a year.

In addition, the railroads voluntarily reduced passenger rates for soldiers and sailors traveling on leave to 1¼¢ a mile—a saving to our boys which adds up to approximately $70,000,000 a year.

All in all, then, the railroads have given back to the public almost as much as they have received from the slight rate increases.

So, in final analysis, the railroads are receiving less per mile for freight hauled than in any year since 1918.

Yet there are some people who would have you believe that the Interstate Commerce Commission should rescind the freight increase allowed the railroads. For the first time in years, they see the railroads showing signs of improved earnings, and forthwith want rates cut. They forget the years when railroad earnings were so low as to be a matter of serious public concern, and fail to take into consideration the uncertainties of the future.

What's more, they completely overlook the fact that even if the slight freight rate increase were removed THE PUBLIC WOULD NOT AND COULD NOT BENEFIT. For so infinitesimal is the increase, as it applies to individual items and commodities, that there would be no way to pass a reduction on. Collectively, though—or in the aggregate—these minute increases help keep the railroads strong.

Now, more than ever, to continue to carry the huge war transportation load, it is vital that the railroads be strong. Anything that would weaken them would weaken the war effort.

This year the railroads are being called upon to do a bigger job even than last year. It will require every resource they can command, every piece of equipment, every atom of ingenuity.

Therefore, it is to the interest of every American to see that the RAILROADS ARE KEPT STRONG for THE WARTIME JOB so vital to this Nation.

CHARGE SEAMEN SIGN INSURANCE TO COMMUNISTS

Report Pressure Brought by Maritime Union.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 21.—The New Leader, a radical Socialist sheet put out every week in New York City, reports that American merchant seamen are being shanghaied into making the Communist party the beneficiary of their $5,000 war risk insurance policies.

According to advices reaching the New Leader, merchant sailors without wives or other dependents, are being strongly urged by leaders within the National Maritime union—which decides whether the men will work or not—to designate individual Communists to receive their insurance money in the event of death.

Then the Communists are supposed to turn the money over to the party treasury. Reliable sources report the Communist party, or C. P., as it is called along the water front, has piled up a tidy little sum of $30,000 or $40,000 so far thru this insurance windfall.

Support Communist Line.

Leaders of the National Maritime union are interested in financing the C. P. because, ever since the union sprang into being in the violent strikes of 1936 and 1937, the NMU leaders have gone along with the zigzagging policies of the Communist party line. They were against going into the war before Hitler attacked Russia. They said it was an "imperialistic" and "capitalistic" war.

Now, under the respectable cover of the Russian war effort, the C. P. is forging ahead within the maritime union and attempting to raid the International Longshoremen's association of the American Federation of Labor for the benefit of the west coast organization headed by Harry Bridges. Bridges is the notorious alien union boss marked for deportation because of his Red connections.

In the ranks of the NMU and among the leaders of the crews aboard the ships carrying supplies to the American forces and our allies overseas there are many who echo the Communist sentiments of their bosses.

Navy Reports Conditions.

Naval officers and sailors of the gun crews aboard the cargo vessels have returned from perilous voyages with stories of the surliness, lack of discipline and seamanship, and laziness of many of the merchant sailors. It is said the only ambition of many of them is to get their hands on the big compensation held out as an inducement to get crews for the ships entering the war zones.

United States sailors who man the destroyers, cruisers and other warships which protect the convoys on the open seas, receive pay as low as $50 a month. They are also subject to navy discipline.

Shipping men here in New York say that in many cases the merchant sailors are receiving as high as $700 and $800 a month, when all the extra war pay is included.

Bonuses and Extra Pay.

Spokesmen for the American Merchant Marine Institute, which handles the negotiations between the operators and the NMU, said they were loathe to give out specific figures for particular ports because that was within the realm of military information. They revealed, however, that a seaman might receive extra pay for touching at several ports within the war zones.

The able bodied seaman today receives pay and extras as follows:

Basic wages of $82.50 a month.

Temporary emergency pay of $17.50 a month.

Port bonuses range from $60 minimum to $125 maximum depending on the port area. Vessels put in at several ports during a voyage and thus, the more ports visited, the more the bonuses pile up for the seamen.

Bonus for Overseas Duty.

War bonus or voyage bonus for overseas duty of $100 a trip, or 100 per cent of the seaman basic and emergency wages, whichever is greater.

Time and a half for overtime, or approximately 85 cents an hour, if a sailor works more than 8 hours a day. Furthermore, the seamen are not supposed to perform any work on Saturday afternoon and Sunday, with the exception of regular tasks bearing on the navigation of the ship and preservation of life and property.

The $5,000 war risk life insurance policies for each seaman.

Criticise Regular Navy.

It is a growing custom of the merchant seamen to look down their noses in disdain at the men in the regular navy. This was demonstrated at a meeting of more than 400 seamen in the NMU hall here in New York City on March 23, 1942, at which their complaints and grievances were compiled to take to Washington.

According to the New York Times account of the meeting, one seaman declared the naval gunners aboard a ship he was on were "a bunch of kids who were seasick all the time."

13 U.S. GENERALS OF PHILIPPINES HELD PRISONER

Washington, D. C., Jan. 21 (AP).—The first official confirmation that Lt. Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright and 12 other American generals captured in the Philippines actually are prisoners of war was announced today by the war department.

The department said the official notification had been cleared thru the International Red Cross, and that the American officers were prisoners in Taiwan camp on the island of Formosa. "Skinny" Wainwright took over the command of American forces in the Philippines when Gen. Douglas MacArthur was ordered to Australia last March, and headed the last defense of Bataan and Corregidor. His wife lives in Skaneateles, N. Y.

OWI, PROPAGANDA AND CENSORSHIP ALL TANGLED UP

Eisenhower Asks Relief from Sherwood.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 21.—Disclosure of plans to send Robert E. Sherwood, playwright, White House ghost writer, and director of overseas operations of the office of war information, to North Africa today brought to light a serious snarl in information, censorship, and propaganda on that fighting front.

Robert E. Sherwood.

While the administration acknowledged the existence of the information and censorship problems, it was silent on the reported collapse of the propaganda machinery established and directed by Sherwood.

It was learned that Lt. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, commander of the African expeditionary forces, had appealed to the war department for protection against the American propaganda being distributed by Sherwood, on the ground that it is doing more harm to the expeditionary force than to enemy morale.

Curb on Sherwood Seen.

The army has requested that Sherwood's group report to the office of strategic services, which is under Col. William J. Donovan and deals directly with the joint chiefs of staff of the allied nations. This would put a curb on Sherwood and his aids, according to the army.

Announcement that Sherwood may be sent to North Africa was accepted in military circles as evidence that President Roosevelt is about to side with the army. It was felt that Sherwood, who is protesting the suggestion, is being moved out of the way so that the reorganization can be ordered.

On the other hand, some observers felt that Mr. Roosevelt may be sending his friend to the zone of contention to receive an education in the problem confronting Eisenhower so that he can keep his propaganda unit from repeating its blunders.

Eisenhower Critical.

Eisenhower made it clear he regards the American psychological war as inept, puerile, and silly because the American propagandists have repeatedly denounced the former Vichy French leaders with whom Eisenhower has been, and is, dealing.

While the general was executing his adroit coup, which was blessed by the state department and later by the White House, Sherwood and his staff were blasting over airways in a manner calculated to destroy confidence of French in North Africa in Eisenhower.

Fear Harm in Propaganda.

The Sherwood staff is reported strong on ideologies and the free freedoms, but lacking in knowledge of the situation with which Eisenhower was dealing. To curtail the hindrance of American propaganda the army has moved to get its hands on the propaganda machinery.

Sherwood, in acknowledging the assignment is under consideration, said there has been some consideration of getting information and censorship services "functioning more perfectly." There have been complaints that this country is not receiving adequate information from the North African front because censorship is too severe.

French Aces in Tunisia Man La Fayette Escadrille of 1943

BY JOHN THOMPSON.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

AN ADVANCED AMERICAN AIR FIELD, Central Tunisia, Jan. 11 [Delayed]—[Censored].—We were watching the sky intently this afternoon because the Germans had raided us recently. One of the fighter pilots spotted planes coming in low and said they were Warhawks [Curtiss P-40s] but not from this field.

Lt. William Lamb of New York, a lawyer, trained his binoculars on the planes, calling out: "They've got the French tricolor on the tail and the tricolor circle under the wings. It must be the La Fayette escadrille."

Lamb was right and a moment later the first flyers of a La Fayette escadrille squadron landed on the field at the controls of the American fighter planes turned over to them a month ago at Casablanca. Now these war hungry flyers, all except one of them aces from the 1940 fighting in France, are ready to fly again for France against the Germans.

Wear Same Old Insignia.

The escadrille had been kept alive as part of the French air force since American flyers organized it in the first World war. Its members, all French aviators, wear the same old escadrille insignia on their planes and blouses, a red Indian in war paint and feathered headdress, his war bonnet sporting true Indian swastikas.

The escadrille commander, Maj. Kostia Rozanoff, also wears the insignia of a flying stork. Rozanoff is a great-grandson of a Russian who moved to Paris. The other flyers, most of them eager young men such as the American pilots and Rozanoff, wear American uniforms except for the British battle blouse.

Have High Shooting Scores.

"All the pilots of my squadron except one sergeant pilot, who was too young, are 1940 aces," Rozanoff told reporters. "Each of us shot down seven or eight Germans. Usually we flew our few planes against about 40 Germans. We are not afraid of them." One pilot, the smallest, shot down 11 Germans.

Rozanoff wears the rosette of an officer of the Legion of Honor and the Croix de Guerre with palm. He received the Croix de Guerre for getting two German planes in one day and a star was added for a third.

None of the La Fayette escadrille flyers fought against the Americans at Casablanca, for which Rozanoff said they all are glad. Rozanoff is 37 years of age and is married. His plane is named "Madkot," a combination of his name and that of his wife, Madeline. Since the armistice his pilots had been flying old Curtiss Hawks.

U. S. ACTS TO SEND SAVACHKA SOUTH FOR TRIAL OF CALDWELL

United States Attorney J. Albert Woll took steps yesterday to assure the appearance of Michael Savachka, former secretary-treasurer of the retail clerks' union, in Miami, Fla., Monday, when Max Caldwell, ousted business manager of the union, goes on trial there on charges of conspiracy to violate the selective service act and harboring a fugitive.

Assistant District Attorney John Owen notified Savachka's attorney, George F. Callaghan, that Savachka is needed as a witness in the Caldwell trial and that removal proceedings will be started if he does not go to Miami willingly. Savachka also has been indicted in Miami for conspiracy to violate the draft act. He has admitted that Caldwell helped him flee Chicago and helped support him during the 16 months when he was sought in connection with the looting of the clerks' union treasury.

Savachka failed to appear yesterday at a hearing of the union's accounting suit before Master in Chancery Daniel Covelli.

PENSIONER DIES IN TUB.

John Greco, 71 years old, 1423 Lexington street, an old age pensioner, was found dead in a bathtub yesterday in County hospital. He was suffering from partial paralysis.

WOMAN RECEIVES TRIBUNE AWARD FOR WAR WORK

The first woman to win THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S war worker's award was honored in a broadcast over W-G-N last night when Mrs. Hazel Rochel, 2223 Burling street, received the diamond studded Victory Eagle gold pin from Lt. Alvin Grauer, representing the war department.

Mrs. Rochel, mother of two boys, was the sixth in the Chicago area to receive the award. Her achievement was the invention of a device which saves 78 man hours weekly at the Rock-Ola Manufacturing corporation.

AXIS TANKS MAKE NEW ADVANCE IN CENTRAL TUNISIA

British 8th Army Reaches Slope Near Tripoli.

BULLETIN.

LONDON, Jan. 22 (Friday)—(AP).—The Daily Mail's Madrid correspondent, quoting reports there from North Africa, said today that great fires were raging in Tripoli, main axis base in Libya, and that the British 8th army's advance units were only five miles outside the city. Tripoli was said to have been damaged heavily by allied air raids and also by German demolition squads. Coastal defense batteries were reported destroyed.

LONDON, Jan. 21 (AP).—New advances for the axis forces in Tunisia in a campaign apparently aimed at throwing a strong barrier between the allies and the coast to protect the line of Marshal Erwin Rommel's retreat westward from Libya were reported today from allied Tunisian headquarters. The British 8th army in Libya drove on behind Rommel to within about 30 miles of Tripoli.

An allied communique announced that axis tanks and infantrymen made another small advance yesterday in the French held mountains southwest of Pont du Fahs and a spokesman disclosed that the vanguards had reached a point about two miles from Robaa, 27 miles from Pont du Fahs and 60 miles southwest of Tunis.

The spokesman reported that Nazi armored forces were making a twin thrust down parallel valleys farther south in the direction of Ousseltia. This was interpreted as an effort to isolate and then occupy the high ground between the two valleys.

Series of Air Attacks.

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's headquarters announced a series of air attacks on axis vehicles and infantry in the fighting areas southwest of Pont du Fahs. American and British bombers assaulted enemy communications and military camps.

Rommel still was falling back fast in Libya, but under heavy punishment from the pursuing British 8th army of Gen. Bernard L. Montgomery, from the allied air arm, and from Fighting French columns supporting the advance of the British left.

A Reuters [British] news agency dispatch quoting a communique from Brig. Gen. Jacques LeClerc's headquarters indicated that his Fighting French troops had made contact in Tripolitania with forces under Gen. Henri Giraud's command from Tunisia. The contact was made in the Djanet region of Algeria, some 900 miles southeast of Algiers.

Tripoli Alight from Bombings.

A British communique from Cairo announced a continuing push that was driving Rommel down the coastward slope from Nefusa ridge, southeast of Tripoli.

Almost continuous bombing attacks on Tripoli kept that city alight. There was, however, no information direct from the front to indicate that Tripoli was as yet being abandoned.

The axis Mediterranean ship lanes, too, were under a running campaign of attrition, Cairo headquarters announcing that two more enemy supply ships had been sunk and two others badly damaged.

Reveals 5 Axis U-Boats Sunk in Last Month in South Atlantic

Rear Adm. Jonas H. Ingram.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Jan. 21 (AP).—Allied forces on the offensive in the South Atlantic have sunk five axis submarines in the last month, Rear Adm. Jonas H. Ingram disclosed today, bringing to 10 the announced total of undersea craft destroyed in the bitter war in these waters. The one-time Annapolis football star, now commander of the allied naval forces in the south Atlantic, announced at a press conference the sinking of the five submarines. Brazilian Air Minister Joaquin Salgado last year previously had reported five submarines were sunk by Brazilian air forces.

Some observers here considered that Adm. Ingram's disclosures were timed with Chile's rupture of relations with the axis to give that coastal nation assurance that the axis submarine depredations were being at least partly countered. Chile, which severed relations with the axis yesterday, has a long and exposed coastline.

Within the last few days many survivors of submarines have been captured on Brazilian soil near the coast. Ingram also said that a German surface raider was scuttled when she was intercepted in these waters and her survivors now are in Brazilian prisons.

Ingram was optimistic over the course of the south Atlantic warfare, explaining that there have been "comparatively few sinkings of allied ships." The admiral said the allies have "gotten a high percentage of enemy craft—higher, I believe, than in other zones.

"Our success is due largely to the fine air forces of the United States and Brazil, which are doing a magnificent job operating from bases extending from Bahia northward."

"We have thrown defense aside," Ingram said, in favor of operations "absolutely offensive."

"Our ocean patrols between here and Africa are very heavy, very efficient and backed by great numbers of aircraft. The Brazilian navy and air force are doing great work with us," he said.

The British patrol the South Atlantic close to Africa but the admiral disclosed that the United States navy is using the base at Bathurst, British Gambia, on the western bulge of Africa, and expects soon to have its own bases at Dakar and Freetown.

NEW YORKTOWN CAN'T WAIT FOR LAUNCHING DIDOS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Newport News, Va., Jan. 21.—The mighty new aircraft carrier Yorktown couldn't wait for speeches at her launching today. Impatient to get into the war to avenge the old Yorktown sunk by the Japanese in the battle of Midway, the new flat top broke away and plunged with a tremendous splash into the James river in the midst of the ceremonies.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, waiting to christen her, seized the bottle of champagne hanging from a flag decked red, white, and blue cord and swung it against the moving ship's prow. The bottle didn't break. The President's wife caught the swinging bottle on the rebound and hurled it just in time to send the bubbling wine flowing over the ship, and down into the water sped the Yorktown.

Rear Adm. Elliott Buckmaster, who was commander of the old Yorktown when she was sunk last June 7, was speaking when a tug in the river whistled a shrill warning that the Yorktown was launching herself.

DEFER HEARING OF MOTHER WHO ABANDONED TWO

A charge of delinquency against Mrs. Bernice Lichtenwalter, 26 years old, who abandoned two of her three small children outside the West North avenue police station Monday night, was continued yesterday by Judge Joseph B. Hermes in Felony court until Jan. 28. The court ordered the social welfare department to investigate the family background. Mrs. Lichtenwalter pleaded her husband was in the army and that she lacked sufficient funds to support the children. She was released on her own bond when friends promised to care for her and the three children. A dependency hearing is set for Jan. 27 in Juvenile court.

PEGGY'S MOTHER NAMES FLYER AT TRIAL OF FLYNN

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 21 (AP).—The mother of Peggy Satterlee acknowledged today that her daughter, who charges Actor Errol Flynn with rape, was living in an apartment of a veteran R. C. A. F. flyer. She added that "they were not exactly engaged."

The mother, Mrs. Florence Satterlee, identified the flyer as Capt. Owen Cathcart-Jones, veteran R. C. A. F. aviator and technical adviser on movie flying films.

Jerry Giesler, defense attorney, drew these admissions from Mrs. Satterlee: She knew the captain had bought Peggy clothes; she knew Peggy had given her age as 21 when she obtained a job at a supper club, when actually she was 15, and had given her age as 18 when she went to work in a night club. She corroborated Peggy's testimony that a week-end aboard Flynn's yacht left the latter shaken and upset. Peggy charged that it was because of intimacies with the actor.

Make Yourself A $2,000,000 HIGHBALL

Know how to make a correct highball? Lots of people don't, so we're giving you the recipe below! We call it a $2,000,000 "dream of a drink"—because that's what Fleischmann invested in grains, skill and research before we released one golden bottle of this rich, luxurious, straight bourbon whiskey. We make it in limited amounts. We have to—it's so good!

FIRST, GET FLEISCHMANN'S BOND

THEN DO THIS!

1 Place the ice cubes in an empty 6 or 8-oz. glass. Connoisseurs say the ice must go in first!

2 Then, add 1½ ounces of delicious Fleischmann's Bond. A good highball needs Fleischmann's smooth creaminess!

3 Fill with club soda or ginger ale. For a perfectly mixed drink, place ingredients in glass in the order given!

AND YE SHALL KNOW THE TRUTH, AND THE TRUTH SHALL MAKE YOU FREE.

THE INNOCENCE OF MR. FLYNN.

Mr. Flynn of the Bronx, late Democratic national chairman, discussing his own character and capabilities with the senate foreign relations committee, affirmed that he was well qualified to be minister to Australia and Mr. Roosevelt's personal roving ambassador in the South Pacific. He would regard himself, he said, as a sophisticated man, well informed, shrewd, broadly cultured, and widely traveled.

Mr. Flynn said he was trained in the law and had traveled in South America, Central America, and in Canada. He said he had a good understanding of Europe and would match his knowledge of the United States with any one. His association with the New York World's fair had been broadening. He was a great reader, a student of the history of the world, and informed in domestic affairs, particularly in social problems. Mr. Flynn was sure that the senators would find him quite up to all the duties of minister and roving ambassador and a person to whom the interests of the United States could safely be trusted. In short, he was tailor made for the job.

Mr. Flynn, however, as Democratic boss of the Bronx was quite innocent in several affairs which had concerned him personally. He was, in his own picture of himself, a naive, trustful person who had been exposed to some of the less desirable practices of politics and had suffered because of his inexperience and his lack of guile. He said it was true that Dutch Schultz, the notorious gangster, had received a deputy sheriff's star from him but he had been imposed upon. The gangster did not use his gangland name, Dutch Schultz; he had used his real name, Arthur Flegenheimer. This, apparently, was a betrayal of faith. Mr. Flynn, who is to be entrusted with diplomatic problems, didn't know as boss of the Bronx that Flegenheimer was Schultz.

Moreover, the sheriff's badges, he said, were of no value; no one was paid for wearing them; they were little tokens of friendliness and almost any one who rated a favor could get one. Mr. Flynn was too innocent to reflect that if a notorious gangster wanted a badge he didn't want to sport it merely to satisfy his underprivileged longing for a fraternity pin. It had some value to him in his business. Mr. Flynn said that when Deputy Sheriff Flegenheimer was discovered to be Dutch Schultz his badge was taken from him and the distribution of these little tokens of friendship and authority was discontinued. We have had that happen at times in Cook county when the badge racket got too hot.

One of the other matters which Mr. Flynn explained was the use of paving blocks and city laborers in the Belgian courtyard of his Lake Mahopac estate. Here, again, Mr. Flynn didn't know anything about it. Robert Moran, former commissioner of public works for the Bronx, used the blocks and the labor in a careless moment. Mr. Moran must have known Mr. Flynn fairly well and he must have thought that Eddie would appreciate having his courtyard paved, otherwise he would hardly have ventured to do what he did. It is curious that he should have so misread the character of the boss of the Bronx, and odd, also, that he did not see the error of his ways until an investigation had been started, whereupon Mr. Flynn's law partner, Mr. Goldwater, made hurried restitution.

These two incidents are episodes in the life of a very innocent man who is likely to be taken unaware by almost any of the facts of life. The Australians, as an honorable people, would not take advantage of so much innocence if it were introduced to them in a diplomatic capacity, but can we trust Mr. Flynn not to fall into other hands? Could he trust himself not to go about distributing badges to other gentlemen he didn't know and getting paving blocks without his knowledge or consent?

Who can say which is the true Eddie Flynn? To be the sophisticate who knows his way about the world or the innocent politician who was retained by Serge Rubenstein as "the most powerful political figure in America"—thus described by Rubenstein to Nathan, the London attorney? Sen. Vandenberg asked Mr. Flynn if Mr. Rubenstein was buying something he didn't get. Mr. Flynn said that was correct. It was a change from getting something that wasn't bought.

If Mr. Flynn has proved anything, it would seem to be that he is too guileless to be trusted even with full control of his own affairs. Things happen to him which shouldn't happen to an elderly person of means who is finding that some of the infirmities of age are mental. Mr. Flynn is entirely too innocent to be sent abroad, altho he probably will be. We bespeak special consideration for him from the Australians. Particularly they must not let him fall into the hands of the untutored natives of the Pacific islands.

WASHINGTON CORNERS THE TYPEWRITERS.

It is ludicrous that the state of Illinois should find itself handicapped in the business of government by a decree from Washington denying it 25 or 30 rented typewriters. But the issue is of greater importance than just how absurd the burocrats can succeed in making themselves look. There is a constitutional question concerning the right of the central government to impede a sovereign state in the discharge of its duties within the federal system, even if it does not go beyond withholding a few typewriters.

The typewriters are needed by the clerical staff of the state senate in the performance of legislative work. The officials of the OPA would have assented if they had not been altogether boneheaded. State officials in a correspondence extending over two months carried the matter up to policy making officials of the war production board, but you would have thought that winning the war hung upon depriving the Illinois general assembly of those 25 typewriters and the answer [under section 1938.103 (b) (2)] was still no.

The government has been busy since last year corraling 850,000 typewriters. The proposed distribution would have put one out of every four persons on the federal pay roll at a typewriter, while one out of every 43 men in the army, navy, and marines would have had to know the touch system—not on a trigger. The idyllic prospect opened up that the rest of the country would again become acquainted with the old fashioned clerk seated on his high stool with a goose quill pen, his thin shanks wrapped around the chair legs like a figure in a Cruikshank print.

If that was all there was to government control of the typewriter supply we might laugh it off. But if, in every particular, a state legislature is required to go ask the federal government for the necessities of its operation, the principle involved is not trivial. When the people come to look at it in that light they may feel that something new has been added to the peremptory summons: Now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of their party. You can bet it won't be the New Deal party, either.

TRIPOLI.

To quote the bombastic dignitary whom he has had such a prominent part in deflating, Gen. Montgomery of the British 8th army is not a collector of deserts. As he approached the blazing town of Tripoli he was not approaching either of the principal objectives of the African campaign. Those objectives are the destruction of Rommel's army, to which Montgomery's troops have been dedicating themselves, and the capture of Bizerte which will open the way for direct attacks on Italy. Tripoli itself is just the capital of Mussolini's desert, the last continental remnant, incidentally, of that empire for which he besought the Fascists to be men instead of mice. As such it is inconsequential.

But Tripoli is also a good port, the first that Montgomery has come to in some 500 miles of driving across the desert at the heels of the German panzer troops. Its capture should put to rest permanently any fears that this desert campaign might become another of the race track wars such as have been fought in Libya since 1940. In pressing on after Rommel, Montgomery took a risk, but, it now appears, a shrewdly calculated one.

He had his neck a long way out. On the outskirts of Tripoli his columns are some 500 miles from Bengazi, the nearest port that can be used as a base for sea borne supplies. Bengazi's facilities are not sufficient to supply the army and much must be trucked overland from Cairo, 1,000 miles away. The army's consumption of gasoline, according to British authorities, is four times as great as it was when the campaign started at El Alamein. Thus Tripoli, worthless territorially, is invaluable as a base.

Hopes of destroying Rommel's army have never been realized, altho it is probable that the campaign shattered its strength. Unless allied forces in eastern Tunisia are stronger than any of the dispatches have indicated, it is not improbable that Rommel can use the force he has left either to join the axis forces in Tunis and Bizerte or to defend their flank by the seizure of the Mareth line fortifications which the French built to defend Tunisia. But the axis army will henceforth face attacks from both sides, from the veterans of Dunkirk and their American comrades operating out of Algeria, and from the veterans of El Alamein and Tobruk driving forward from their new base in Tripoli.

TOO OLD FOR FIGHTING.

Clearly no good military reason exists for inducting men of 35 to 38 into the army. Experience has shown that the rigors of field service in modern combat are such that the man above 30 is virtually worthless as a fighter, whether in the ranks or as a company officer, the only grades which men without previous military experience can expect to attain.

No good reason has ever been given, in fact, why the effective limit of the draft was placed at 38 years. It should have been 30, of course, but since military requirements were ignored, it might as well have been 35 or 40 as 38. The haphazard designation even gave ground for suspicion that the age limit has been tailored to fit certain individual favorites anxious to keep out of uniform.

Equally, no good reason, aside from megalomania in Washington and in the service, has ever been given for the proposals to raise an army of 7,500,000 or 10,000,000 men, when it is an obvious impossibility to transport anywhere near that number to foreign battlefields and support them there.

Men past 30, of little worth as soldiers, are most valuable in civilian life. They have learned their trade, whether it be farming or the law, toolmaking or engineering. Many of them are executives and production leaders. What the excessive draft age has done qualitatively, the swollen army objective has done quantitatively, by draining labor from industry and agriculture.

It is difficult to ascribe these policies to mere official stupidity, since their ill effects are so evident that even the most stupid of administrators should recognize and correct them. Both the overloading of the army rolls and the placing of men in their 30s under the restraint of army discipline hints at some ulterior purpose, unrevealed but sinister.

Editorials of the Day

A SHAMEFUL PRACTICE.
[Detroit Free Press.]

Whether the law or the internal revenue bureau's interpretation of the law is to blame, Congressman Roy O. Woodruff's anger at the collection of federal income taxes from the estates of soldiers, sailors, and marines is both justifiable and welcome. His explosion exactly mirrors the reactions of readers after the first revelation of this ghoulish practice.

We hope that wrath spreads to the occupants of every desk in both chambers of congress. Already it has traveled a considerable distance therein. Congress should immediately amend the revenue act to exempt such estates from this levy. America is not so niggardly that it must pay its way by collecting back taxes from the widows of its heroes.

"DEAR EDDIE."
[Washington Post.]

The President's nomination of Edward J. Flynn, retiring chairman of the Democratic national committee, as minister to Australia is bound to come in for sharp challenge on the floor of the senate. We hope it will be rejected. In this way two services will have been gained: The President will have discharged his political debt and the country's dignity will have been sustained. There is little to add about the Bronx boss to what we have already said. It was in keeping with Mr. Flynn's irregular conduct that he himself should have been the first to announce the nomination.

Something new in this erstwhile land of plenty is the design on a restaurant plate showing thru the 85 cent lunch.—Detroit News.

M STANDS FOR MUSKRAT.

When the editor of this column announced that he intended to eat a muskrat as a dietary experiment, a slight degree of consternation was observed. Art circles shuddered; the literary world, which has a hearty appetite for worse things than muskrats in its reading, turned pale, and the Wine and Food society discussed the possible revocation of our auxiliary and non-dues-paying membership. It seems that we are generally misunderstood; the world we live in knows nothing of the pure shrine of science at which we burn secret candles.

* * *

Club members, overhearing our instructions to the steward, cried out in alarm. The steward himself accepted the order in an aloof, forbidding way. The friend whom we tagged as a fellow eater of muskrats advanced to the dining room like a rookie marching toward his baptism of fire.

* * *

The chef consulted his first edition of Escoffier and decided to give us rat de musc braisé, crême aigre avec champignons. It was a noble sauce with giant mushrooms, but since it concealed the mysterious structure of a beast that should be gnawed from the hands in frontier style, it was a handicap to science.

* * *

The flesh of the muskrat, which is hard to locate except on his stumpy hind legs, is dark mahogany of color, dry, somewhat stringy, and of a vague gamey flavor. It is difficult to find on the animal a portion of meat large enough to set the teeth into firmly. The sensations of eating are almost absent in the muskrat experiment.

* * *

If faced with famine, we could eat muskrats in abundance without complaint. But having eaten our first, we will call it our last until the dreadful pinch of hunger becomes national. Even then, rather than trifle with such small and unrewarding creatures, we will cry, "Bring me a musk ox instead of a muskrat. There's an animal one can eat in man-sized bites."

THE GREAT COLD COMES.

The wind's a knife across the snow;
Our footsteps creak as we plod by,
Belabored by the cold, and blow
Our smoking breath up to the sky.

Earth puts on armor as in war,
Lush fields, bright water, waving fronds,
Are frozen spikes, an icebound shore,
Sharp, rigid trees and glittering ponds.

Now cold and heat their armies cast
Into a struggle swift and dire,
While we, scarce wiser than our past,
Call out upon the god of fire,

Fire, burn tonight, lest we be lost;
The great cold stalks with eyes aglow
Like stars . . . his breath white killing frost,
His wild mane shadowing the snow.

Janet Norris Bangs.

Snowbound, It's Peaceful!

Have you ever been snowed in? It is the peacefullest sort of feeling. Nature has conspired to keep you prisoner, and there is nothing to be done about it. All responsibility for absence from business is out of your hands and on the head of the snowdrifts.

So you settle down to take full advantage of the respite and decide to write an appropriate poem to celebrate the occasion, called "Snowbound." You look out of the window and note how the long, winding driveway to the gate is completely hidden, its sweep marked only by the trees that fringe it. In half an hour two lines of the poem are on paper:

"The snow is falling, falling,
Ah! 'tis falling most appalling."

Then a voice from below commands, "Call up for the snowplow!"

Well, they don't order you about at the office like that, so you call up for the snowplow. They answer that they have a few highways and byways of their own to attend to without making excursions into people's front yards. So you return to the poem and quickly add a line that has come like a flash while you've talked to the snowplow man:

"It is getting deeper, deeper."

Then, from below, again the voice: "You'd better get out and clear the roadway yourself."

You lay down the pen and shout that you are in the middle of a poem, and in a minute find yourself in the middle of the snow with a shovel. It is a long way to the gate. The road winds like an S, as tho never quite making up its mind. It is twice as long as if it had been cut straight thru.

Hours pass. Long hours. But you are at the gate at last, bent with weariness and aches, as twilight falls. The job is done. Then from the heavens, as tho in benediction, snow gently falls again.

And in the night the wind rattles at the windows and whines around the house, and when dawn breaks, great drifts of snow, higher than before, stand along the path of toil like ghouls in nightshirts mocking at the futility of man.

Shandy Gaff.

HOLD THAT LYRIC!

I have a snow lyric—quite nice,
As a well-bred lyric should be;
But it raises a question in my mind,
This winter of forty-three:

Will it make the Line? That depends
On a thing not yet known to me:
Does the Linemaster shovel his walks himself,
This winter of forty-three?

CAN AN EPILEPTIC BE EMPLOYED?

UNTIL we know more about the cause and cure of epilepsy, we are obliged to focus our attention upon the management of the disease. Thanks to the investigations of Pollock and others, it has been demonstrated conclusively that many of these sufferers can be rendered comparatively free from attacks. At any rate, under proper medical control, they can be reduced in frequency and severity.

We can well understand why afflicted young men cannot be accepted for military duty. The hazard is too great. Industry, on the other hand, may benefit from the absorption of many of these handicapped persons. It has been shown that the one who is occupied is not only happier but his physical condition is improved.

As a rule, there is nothing wrong with the heart, lungs, kidneys, or other vital organs. In most instances, the eyes and ears are normal. With an opportunity to use muscles and intelligence, not a few will thrive.

One part of the body only is affected—namely, the brain. Nevertheless, the nervous system will respond readily to sedatives without diminishing the sense of responsibility. In fact, a high percentage of these individuals are able to master a college course or even engage in post-graduate pursuits.

It is worthy of note that certain commercial and professional vocations have accepted the epileptic without discrimination. Members of this class may be found among physicians, dentists, lawyers, school teachers, librarians, business executives, mechanics, salesmen, farmers, and clerks.

As we would expect, however, certain occupations will be more suitable than others, while a few will be out of the question. We would not consider allowing an epileptic to operate a locomotive, elevator, street car, or bus. In addition, despite numerous safety appliances, he must not be assigned to tasks wherein either he or his fellow employés will be placed in jeopardy.

If one of these unfortunates is engaged, should his co-workers be told about his infirmity? The answer is —yes. Our American sense of fair play and sympathy will come to the rescue. His colleagues can be thoroly informed and thus be helpful. He may be introduced as follows:

"Here is a man who wants employment. Most of the time he is perfectly well and strong. He may, however, experience a mental blackout for a few seconds or exhibit a convulsion. Should such an episode present itself, loosen his collar, cover him up, and leave him alone. Please remember that the disease is not his fault. It is just one of those things that medical science has not mastered completely. Let's pitch in and aid him."

Ninety-nine times out of a hundred, such frankness will make for confidence. He will then be able to hold his own.

This country is man power hungry and here is a sizable army of potential producers. If we will but search, many satisfactory jobs can be found. It goes without saying that these victims must be under the constant supervision of a physician.

WARPED WARTS?

L. M. R. writes: I have been told that some scientist claims that warts point to mental decay. Could this be?

REPLY.

No. The tumors result from a virus infection. They do not take the IQ of the victim into consideration.

DENGUE FEVER.

M. G. writes: How long does breakbone fever last?

REPLY.

From two to three weeks, on the average. If a relapse occurs, illness may be prolonged.

PRESSURE PAIN.

A. L. writes: Why is it that I am bothered with sciatica only at night?

REPLY.

Because of your posture, which allows greater pressure upon the diseased area.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Writers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Give full names and addresses. No manuscripts can be returned. Space for letters is obviously limited. Incoming mail far exceeds it. If a letter is not printed, attribute it to lack of room. Address letters to Voice of the People, THE TRIBUNE.

DISCOUNTING GAS RATION COUPONS.

River Grove, Ill., Jan. 15.—I wish to suggest that, in order to save gas, rubber, and automobiles, the public be encouraged to refrain from using all gas possible and keep the unused coupons to be turned in later for gasoline for emergencies, vacations, business trips, etc., the accumulated unused coupons to be discounted at one-half of their current value. This would furnish a strong and healthy incentive to the individual motorist to conserve gas and rubber and would give needed flexibility, as the legitimate needs for gas vary widely thru the year. The wear and tear on a car is much more pronounced in midwinter than in milder weather.

The idea seems to prevail generally that if one's individual quota is not used, the rations will be reduced. Many are taking unnecessary trips now to consume their quota in the hope their rations will not be reduced. Others are giving unused coupons to friends and there is probably some chiseling in one way or another. This results in much useless waste of rubber and gas at a time when they are so vital. If the unused coupons could be redeemed at one-half value it would result in an enormous net saving in gas, tires, auto parts, etc. The individual could thus accumulate an available reserve for emergency use thru his own initiative. H. G. OLDHAM.

FIGHTERS MUST BE YOUNG.

Chicago, Jan. 20.—A great many men now in the army come back to the company where I work. Their stories invariably center on the difficult time men over 30 have in adjusting themselves to army life.

Men over 30 normally have entered into a productive period and are of value to industry. Incidentally, they usually are taxpayers of considerable worth. Enlist these oldsters in the defense job and use the younger men, under 30, for fighting. Also get rid of some of these college students now in the reserve who are merely passing the time. If their I. Q. were given proper attention they would not be in any college.

50 YEAR OLD.

NEWS OF ERROL FLYNN.

Chicago, Jan. 16.—For several days now your newspaper has been giving undue publicity to the Errol Flynn case. Must your paper lower itself to the level of sex crazed magazines and other filthy rags that no decent person would ever read?

Do not continue to injure the moral health of our already badly instructed and misinformed youngsters.

VIOLA HECHT.

HOW TO GET BRIDGES DEPORTED.

Muncie, Ind., Jan. 14.—The writer of this note suggests to congress that Mr. Harry Bridges, west coast labor leader, might make a good minister to Australia instead of Mr. E. J. Flynn. Of course, we realize that workers on the "grave yard shift" have no authority to nominate ministers.

MEMBER LOCAL 287, UAW-CIO.

BEST WISHES TO EDDIE.

Elgin, Ill., Jan. 19.—A telegram from Washington to "my friend." Paving Blocks Flynn, of 264 words [at 6 cents a word] amounts to $15.84, plus 15 per cent federal tax, totaling $17.22. Do you think it was necessary to spend our tax money for "personal good wishes"?

M. SNERD.

CENTRAL HEATING PLANTS.

Chicago, Jan. 14.—From time to time badly advised men spend their money and energy in probing the subject of central heating for Chicago, only to find that they are butting their heads against stone walls of regimented interests.

In the natural course of progress we should, today, be receiving steam for heat from a "central" just as we receive electricity and gas. The idea is not new, nor is it experimental. Even in this city are a few installations of considerable coverage. Central heating would eliminate eastern coal and the fuel oil problem. While the individual pays ten dollars for eastern coal, the central would pay two for Illinois. Central plants would be located on water fronts, and the fuel barged in, thus eliminating rail haul.

Advanced design would eliminate the discharge to the air of coloring matter, stack ash, and corrosive gases which, in present practice, is destructive to our architecture, and not conducive to health.

Getting back to regimented interests, inimical to the general welfare, had the tallow makers in the days of the candle been clever we would still be using the candlestick. X. Y. Z.

A PURIST, EH?

Chicago, Jan. 18.—I saw an article in THE TRIBUNE last week about "busses." So at last the plural of "bus" will have double "s"! Henceforth, it won't be spelled to sound like "fuses."

Now, if you can only put it over to the radio announcers, commentators, actors, and actresses to pronounce the first syllable of "efficient" as in "effect"—not "e-ficient"; and "official" as in "office"—not "o-ficial," then I can listen to broadcasts in peace.

If possible, please tell me what crackpot started "aren't I?" to replace "am I not?" I guess we shall soon be saying, "I are"—heaven forbid.

I am neither from England nor Boston, but even Missouri's third or fourth grade pupils can pronounce these words correctly. VIVIENNE LEE.

SPEEDING UP V-MAIL.

Belvidere, Ill., Jan. 15.—I would like to send a little word to Mrs. T. C. D. of Wilmette. I agree with her that the V-mail letters go slower than the regular ones, but we must remember that it takes several hundred to complete a film that can be sent across. And now, when our regular letters will all go by water, regardless of air mail stamps, let us all write V-mail letters often so that the films will be quickly filled and sent across.

A SOLDIER'S MOTHER.

ON THE SIDELINES.

Chicago, Jan. 18.—My sales at a hotel war stamp booth a few days ago amounted to $21.85. I sold $18.25 in stamps to a soldier, $1 to a sailor, and a civilian bought the remaining $2.60. Do our boys have to finance the war along with fighting it? Why not let the service men do the financing and the "lobby loafers" the fighting? We could do with fewer of their kind. DISGUSTED.

WE PRINT NEWS, AND THERE ARE ALL KINDS.

Chicago, Jan. 17.—Some time ago I criticized you for permitting a certain story to appear on the front page of THE TRIBUNE, and I still contend that stories of the sort are not worth the ink used to publish them. But today I wish to compliment you.

There are so many who are quick to criticize and slow to praise that I feel constrained to send these words of appreciation for publication of the Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker articles now running in THE TRIBUNE. This is a remarkable story, indeed, and I, for one, would like the articles published in booklet form for a permanent possession and record. May I suggest that when the story has been completed you have reprints made? There are thousands, I am sure, who join me in this request.

HENRY KROAKEVIK.

TEMPERANCE LITERATURE.

Milton, Wis., Jan. 18.—If Pvt. J. M., who wrote a letter to THE TRIBUNE a few days ago from the southwest Pacific, and others would read "The Amazing Story of Repeal," which probably can be found in any large library in this country, I am quite sure their viewpoint concerning the so-called evils of prohibition would be altered.

The Bible says: "Wine is a mocker, strong drink is raging, and whosoever is deceived thereby is not wise." And again it says: "At the last it biteth like a serpent and stingeth like an adder."

A FRIEND OF THE SOLDIERS.

"BUBBLES, PRETTY BUBBLES."

Chicago, Jan. 18.—The New Dealers remind me of the song, "I'm forever blowing bubbles, pretty bubbles in the air."

Does any one even in his gayest dreams have any real idea of how much 109 billion dollars really is?

The New Deal needs some lessons in sound economy and good budgeting.

NIECE IS AN HEIR.

Chicago, Jan. 19.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—An uncle of mine died last year in the state of Washington. He left property but no will. The nearest kin is my aunt who was his sister. As a niece [1] may I also claim an inheritance? 2. To whom do I inquire about the property and possible cash? 3. Must one put in a claim within a certain time. 4. If the estate must be probated, what is the first procedure? K. L.

1. Yes.
2. To the clerk of the Probate court there.
3. Ordinarily it is not necessary for the heirs to present claims or to be separately represented.
4. Presumably your aunt will present a petition to the Probate court.

THE HANDWRITING ON THE WALL

GREEN PRAISES M'KIBBIN'S WORK IN STATE OFFICE

They Appear Together at Y.M.C.A. Dinner.

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

Gov. Dwight H. Green last night took advantage of his first chance to speak publicly in behalf of George B. McKibbin, regular Republican organization candidate for mayor. The occasion was the 85th annual meeting of the Y. M. C. A. in Chicago.

More than 1,000 guests were present at the banquet in the Palmer House when Gov. Green prefaced his feature speech of the evening with remarks lauding the candidate. McKibbin, who was president of the Y. M. C. A. here in 1932 and now is a director, introduced the governor.

Says McKibbin Gained Ability.

"In responding to your introduction I suppose I should have addressed you as 'Mister Mayor,'" the governor said. "I must warn you that no matter how much you strive, that in your new endeavor you will find yourself suddenly classed as a politician.

"I'm going to miss George McKibbin as state finance director, because he gave rare good service. When I started in office, we encountered many difficulties together, and now I'm afraid I'm going to encounter them again. But I know that George McKibbin has gained a great deal thru his contacts as a state official—he is an abler man for that."

Tonight McKibbin and Gov. Green will be guests of Sheldon Clark, chairman of the state boxing commission, at the Nate Bolden-Lee Savold match in the Chicago Stadium. Clark was being considered for the mayoral race when he reported that his physician had advised against the strain.

Albert Lists 34 Broadcasts.

Arthur F. Albert, another Republican candidate for mayor, yesterday described a schedule of radio speeches which he said is more extensive than any in Chicago political history. His list mentions 34 broadcasts. Not more than one day will intervene between his broadcast talks from now until the primary election, he said.

John H. Lyle, also seeking the Republican mayoral nomination, issued a statement bearing down on the traction muddle, which has flavored city campaigns for decades. In the last 10 days, said Lyle, he has investigated street car service on Milwaukee, Ashland, Blue Island, Elston, Chicago, and Wentworth avenues, and on State, Halsted, Division, 63d, and other streets.

The transportation companies have failed to carry out the provision of the new traction ordinance that they spend $102,000,000 for improvements, he said.

"I promise you," said Lyle's statement, "that if nominated by the Republicans and elected, with an iron will I will compel the companies to live up to the letter of the new ordinance or forfeit the right to the streets."

Hotel and Shelter Losses Reduce Precincts in City

Chicago lost two election precincts as a result of the government acquiring the Congress and Stevens hotels and the closing of a relief shelter in the 20th ward, the board of election commissioners announced yesterday. The 1st ward now will have 30 precincts and the 20th ward will have 48 precincts.

Friend of the Yanks' Kin

BY SALLY JOY BROWN

[This department will answer questions covering problems related to the social welfare of relatives of service men, both in the column and by mail, if stamped, addressed envelopes are sent with inquiries.]

Mr. P. E. H. writes: "Please tell me whether the mother, grandmother, and a sister under 18 years of age of a soldier can make claim as dependent relatives, where the mother is a widow and where the soldier in civilian life had a job, was living with them and contributed more than 50 per cent of the household and family expenses."

ANSWER: If the facts are as stated, there is no reason why the soldier may not file an application for the relatives mentioned. However, it will be necessary to submit affidavits proving relationship and dependency of all persons involved. The facts of the case will then be forwarded to headquarters for review and approval or rejection. If any of the relatives mentioned has an income sufficient to maintain her, she could not be considered dependent. I will forward six affidavits of the type necessary for class "B" dependents on receipt of a stamped addressed envelope.

Miss J. F. writes: "My brother, who has been in the army since last May, married in October. He is now at a camp in the southern part of the country. Isn't his wife entitled to receive an allowance?"

ANSWER: Unless your brother files an application for a family allowance for his wife, she will not receive that allowance automatically. It will be necessary for him to obtain an official application blank from his finance officer and provide proof of marriage, that is, a certified copy of the public or church record of the ceremony. It will also be necessary for him to contribute $22 from his salary toward an income for his wife. If his rank is above that of a line sergeant, he could not apply for benefits.

Mrs. H. writes: "My son is in the army. I have written several times and asked if he has taken out the government insurance, and since he is rather neglectful about such things, I am wondering if I can apply for him, and if so, what agency I should contact."

ANSWER: I am informed that civilians may not apply for national service life insurance. It is necessary for the service man to make the application. You may, if you wish, pay the premiums after your son has applied for such insurance.

WOMEN DEMAND MAN SIZE CHECK FOR MAN SIZE JOB

G.O.P. Group Proposes Equality at Once.

Public support of an "equal pay for women or identical rate for the job" policy was urged yesterday by the advisory board of the National Federation of Women's Republican Clubs. The board closed a two day meeting in the Palmer House.

While recognizing that some employers, labor unions, and government agencies have indorsed the policies and pay principles, the board declared there is still a wide gap in the general adoption of adequate wage scales for women.

6 Million In War Work.

Summarizing the action of the group, Mrs. Louis Leech of St. Paul, Minn., treasurer of the federation, said: "While the equal pay for women policy has always been meritorious, it is pressing today. There will be at least six million women in war production this year.

"Their aptitude for war occupations already has made its mark in production totals. There should be no questioning of equalizing wages for a comparable quality and quantity of work.

"Some progress," she said, "has been made in this effort for equal wage rates, notably in recommendations of the war labor board, in union agreements, and in employers' action. There is a wide gap, however, between the declared principle and its general adoption."

Name Two on Committee.

Mrs. Addison B. Green of Holyoke, Mass., and Mrs. Katherine Kennedy Brown of Dayton, O., were elected to the executive committee. Mrs. W. Glenn Suthers of Chicago, president of the federation led the meeting.

Members of the group were guests of the Illinois Federation of Women's Republican Clubs at luncheon in the Kungsholm restaurant. Special guests were Lt. Gov. and Mrs. Hugh W. Cross, and Ben L. Berve, chairman of the state Republican central committee.

RULES U. OF I. CAN HIRE ATTORNEYS; CAN'T PAY THEM

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 21 [Special].—The University of Illinois may employ its own lawyers, but it cannot legally pay them because it has failed to obtain from the legislature specific appropriations for this purpose, the Illinois Supreme court ruled today.

On the advice of George F. Barrett, attorney general, the state treasurer and state auditor had refused to pay the $9,000 a year salary of Sveinbjorn Johnson, U. of I. counsel, and his assistant, Norval D. Hodges, who had been getting $3,000 a year.

School Claims a Victory.

"Johnson and Hodges sought to compel the treasurer and auditor to pay their salaries, notwithstanding the absence of an appropriation therefor by the legislature," Barrett commented. "The Supreme court upheld my contention."

But the university claimed a victory in another phase of the case. Barrett had contended that he is the sole legal adviser of all state agencies.

As a public corporation created for a specific purpose, the U. of I. "has the undoubted right to employ its own counsel," the court stated in an opinion written by Justice June C. Smith, Centralia.

"In the sense of being a department or branch of the state government, the University of Illinois is not an agency or the instrumentality of the state. It is a separate corporate entity which functions as a public corporation.

Deny Barrett Power.

"It is not the duty of the attorney general to represent the corporation or the trustees, by virtue of his office as chief law officer of the state. He has no right to do so."

However, the court said: "The attorney general was correct in advising the auditor to refuse the warrants [for salaries]. The auditor was equally justified in refusing to issue them."

At Champaign, Johnson commented today: "The opinion established the principle for which the university contended, namely that it is an independent state educational agency with full power to name its own legal counsel."

OLD AGE RELIEF ROLLS DECREASE THRU WAR WORK

War time jobs have reversed the long upward trend of the Illinois old age assistance rolls, it was learned yesterday. In some cases the jobs are being occupied by men over 65 who are finding a revived use for their skill. In others, the jobs are enabling younger persons to take their parents off the OAA rolls.

When the OAA program started in 1936 legislators expected the rolls to grow to 60,000 or 70,000. But it wasn't long before this top was passed. Last October the rolls stood at 150,972.

The figure for this month will be 150,167, showing a decrease of 800 recipients in three months.

There are other hopeful signs. In 1941 the average monthly number of applicants to get on the rolls was 2,157. For 1942 the monthly average was 1,733—a decrease of almost 20 per cent.

Pending applications also have decreased—from 6,798 in December, 1941, to 3,826 in December, 1942, or 43 per cent.

Registration Opens Today in 145 City Firehouses

Chicago's 145 firehouses will be opened to the public at 1 p. m. today for new registrations and changes of address for the aldermanic election and mayoral primary Feb. 23. Today, tomorrow, and Monday registration officers will be on duty from 1 to 9 p. m. Election officials renewed a suggestion that voters handle registration matters today and tomorrow, thus avoiding long lines on Monday.

A Well Balanced Packed Lunch

The packed lunch for factory worker, office worker, or school child should be planned and prepared just as carefully as a home meal. A typical well balanced lunch includes cottage cheese and green pepper sandwich, deviled egg, raw carrot sticks and radish, fruit salad, cup cake, and milk. Another suggested menu is cream soup (in thermos), cheese and vegetable sandwich on enriched bread, celery curls, raw apple, and milk.

TRICKING UP MEATLESS MEALS

by Betty Crocker

THAT'S THE POINT, I think. We should really "trick up" any meatless meals we need to have. We should give them so much appetite-come-on that Dad won't even notice the absence of meat! Not so difficult, either.

START OFF your dinner (lunch or supper) with welcoming bowls of hot fragrant soup. I feel that soup adds cheer and "special-ness" to a meal—and this extra cheer is particularly important in a meal that has no meat, or a meal that's skimpy on meat.

Here, for instance, is a meatless dinner menu. This dinner doesn't need to offer any excuses for itself. It doesn't say, "Sorry, couldn't have meat"!

DON'T GROAN, PLEASE, when I suggest "home-cooked" soup. There's a new, very simple way to make delicious home-cooked soup. You see, our company has put out a new product. It's called "Betty Crocker Vegetable Noodle Soup Ingredients". It's soup in a package! All the dry ingredients for your soup, 99% ready to cook.

You simply empty the package into boiling water...add butter...simmer. That's all you do. Such delectable soup, too! Flavorsome and savory. A golden broth brimming with fresh-tasting vegetables, choice seasonings, and the rich tender egg noodles.

No "warmed-over" taste to this soup. It's fresh-cooked in your own kitchen. Not reheated. You cook the vegetables, and other ingredients, for the first time, yourself.

FAVORITE CHEESE CASSEROLE: A zesty, satisfying dish—golden with cheese, and rich flavored. Interesting texture, too. And easy to prepare. Here is the recipe—tested and perfected by my staff in the Gold Medal Kitchen:

12 slices Enriched White Bread
½ lb. Sharp Yellow Cheese, cut in ⅛-inch thick slices
4 Egg Yolks
2½ cups Milk
1 tsp. Salt
⅛ tsp. Pepper
¾ tsp. Dry Mustard

Cut off bottom crusts of bread—and enough of top crusts to square off slices. Lay 6 slices close together in well greased 8 by 12-inch baking dish. Cover with slices of cheese; then top with remaining 6 slices of bread.... Beat egg yolks, add milk and seasonings, and mix well. Pour over "sandwiches" in baking dish. Let stand in refrigerator several hours. (The liquid will be absorbed by the "sandwiches".) Bake in a moderate oven (350°) for 1 hour.

(Use dried crusts later. They are excellent for fine crumbs. Keep egg whites covered in refrigerator to use for white cakes, icings, or meringues.)

FOOD VALUE must always be considered, of course, in planning meals. You can use your full allowance of meat per person each week, for meat is valuable as building food. When you must skimp on meat; keep its food values in mind; and use something which contains these same values.

To help supplement the proteins of meat; serve more milk; cheese of any kind, eggs, legumes. To help make up for some of the iron; thiamine (vitamin B_1); riboflavin and niacin (another B vitamin) of meat—there are whole grain products; enriched bread and flour; dark green leafy vegetables; potatoes; peas and beans—all valuable sources of one or more of these other elements provided by meat.

★ ★ ★

To make up for the zest factor of meat—be sure your dinner is inviting. Inviting from soup to nuts! Omit the nuts, if you like...but do begin with steaming hot soup. Soup helps to smooth the disposition and relax tired nerves. Soup takes the edge off appetites—and, I believe, the mind off meat (or absence of it)!

YOU TOO CAN AFFORD BIG GLASSES OF ORANGE JUICE!

Just switch to Florida's!

Watch their eyes sparkle when they see BIG glasses of orange juice on the table! For Florida's are the juiciest oranges that grow.

More juice means you are giving them more vitamin C...more bone-building calcium...more essential minerals...for far less money!

And here's the important thing to remember: Florida oranges often take on green and copper tones after they have fully ripened...not before! The thick-skinned navel-type orange turns a bright yellow-orange...pretty to look at, but doesn't contain anywhere near as much juice, orange for orange.

So if it's juice you want, remember to get those thin-skinned oranges from Florida. Serve big glasses of juice every day for far less money than you've been spending.

Men in Service Abroad Tell in Letters of Their Reunions

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

When the venerable Chicago Bible society holds its 103d annual meeting tonight in the 32 West Randolph Street building, it will hear that the year 1942 surpassed 1941 in its distribution of Bibles by a wide margin. But Dr. Robert Taylor, secretary of the society, explained that the figures he will report tonight, large as they are, are not as important as the fact that good, earnest Bible reading by thousands is increasing vastly.

Dr. Taylor said the kind of Bibles in demand are those printed with easy reading type, and containing readers' aids such as maps, cross references, and concordance. These are not the kind, he added, which will be dusted off by the curious or casual reader, but are those to be read regularly, day by day.

No increase in the distribution of pamphlet booklets, containing a single book portion of the Bible, will be reported, Dr. Taylor said, but New Testament distribution has increased more than 30 per cent above 1941. He explained that Lt. James C. Whittaker's Tribune series on the rescue of Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker and his companions soon will be reflected in greatly increased Bible distribution.

"Figures can be made to mean almost anything," said Dr. Taylor, "but our observation indicates a genuine increased interest in the reading of the Bible. Scriptures used for promotion have not increased in numbers distributed, but Scriptures for reading purposes have shown a marked increase."

Dr. Taylor said his report tonight will show that in 1942 contributions to the society for free distribution of the Bible will exceed those of any previous year. He said he would cite tonight the significance of the Chicago society when so many similar societies in other parts of the world have virtually ceased their work. He added that he would emphasize the society's obligation "to promote the reading of the Word in one of the few great cities where men are still free to choose their own reading material."

Reservations for tonight's meeting were so great, Dr. Taylor said, that the throng could not be accommodated in First Congregational church social room, Union square, as originally planned, thus calling for the loop location announced. Dr. Charles W. Koller, president of Northern Baptist Theological seminary, will deliver the principal address.

Religious News Notes

A five year program leading to the centennial of the founding of the Evangelical Lutheran Augustana synod will be started Sunday in the 50 churches of that communion in Chicago.

This branch of Lutheranism in America was founded by Swedish pioneers who first established churches along the Delaware river in 1638. These early churches, among the oldest in America, have been in continuous use, and some of them are known as "Old Swedes' church" and are now affiliated with the Episcopal church.

The first Augustana church was founded on the Iowa prairie near Ottumwa 95 years ago. Since that time, the synod has grown to include 1,200 congregations. The five year program will be opened with a Centennial thank offering.

The Rev. Dr. Armin George Weng, president of the Illinois synod, United Lutheran church, and secretary of the National Lutheran council, announced yesterday that the council will meet Wednesday for its 25th annual meeting in Minneapolis. This is the first time the council, representing eight major Lutheran bodies, has convened west of Chicago. War time problems of the churches will occupy central attention by the 29 members of the council at the three day sessions.

W. H. Wisner, creator of many of THE TRIBUNE'S war time maps in color, was elected senior warden of the Episcopal Church of Our Saviour, 530 Fullerton parkway, at the church's annual meeting last night. The Rev. Donald B. Kline, pastor, also announced the election of Howard H. Iden as junior warden.

"Confidence" will be the subject of Mrs. Col. A. S. Norris of the Salvation Army Evangeline residence in a third Friday Evening at the Temple tonight at 15th Corps temple, 1710 North California avenue.

"War Marriages—Shall We Encourage Them?" will be Rabbi Jacob Weinstein's sermon subject Sunday morning at K. A. M. temple, Drexel boulevard and 50th street. War marriages also will be the Sunday night subject of Dr. Preston Bradley at People's church, 941 Lawrence avenue.

Sixtieth anniversary observances of St. James Catholic church, 29th street and Wabash avenue, have been announced for Feb. 7. St. James church is considered the mother church of south side Catholic parishes. The observance will center around the celebration of the anniversary solemn high mass.

Special meetings all next week will mark the 33d anniversary of the founding of the Chicago Christian Industrial league, with the dedication of the league's new headquarters, 28 South Sangamon street, set for Sunday morning. Dr. Paul S. Johnson, superintendent of the Presbyterian church extension board of Chicago, will be the dedication preacher. Donald S. McWilliams, president of the league board, will read the dedication litany. Weekday services, featuring special speakers, will be held each night.

Dr. J. Walter Malone, vice president of Presbyterian [formerly McCormick] Theological seminary, will be mortgage burning ceremony preacher Sunday morning at 7th Presbyterian church, 86th place and Sangamon street. Dr. John C. Leonard, pastor, will pay tribute to the building committee which directed the reconstruction in 1924 to the final debt paying.

Dr. Jacob Singer, spiritual leader of Temple Mizpah, 1615 Morse avenue, has been elected to the board of trustees of Hebrew Union college, Cincinnati, O.

Front VIEWS and PROFILES

BY MARCIA WINN

It's a Personal Matter.

We wandered down to the Art institute last week to talk to Georgia O'Keeffe whose exhibition, the first extensive one-woman show ever to be hung in the institute galleries, opened yesterday. We found her very busy doing what she had been doing for three days—hanging her 61 paintings. At the end of three days, the paintings were balanced on little rubber mats on the floor. At the end of four days, they were still on the floor. The fifth day they finally went up.

Altho this precision and meticulous care reflect the perfectionism of Miss O'Keeffe's work, it puzzled us for a while. Five days seems a long time to get 61 pictures hung when you have 407 feet and 8 inches of wall to hang them on. We considered the method of Carlos Merida, another modern painter, who says, "If a picture is good enough, it should look good anywhere." And Fernand Leger, who just sits, and broods, and loftily ignores the whole thing. And Salvador Dali, who doesn't give a hoot, altho his wife does.

But with Miss O'Keeffe, in private life the wife of Alfred Stieglitz, the photographer, the hanging of a picture is as important as its painting. She is a slight, wiry little woman with a face of exquisite, coinlike beauty, done almost in pale sepia, and brown hair wound in a coronet, but she lugged her heavy paintings, in their frames of copper and stainless steel, like an automaton. Before she was thru, of course, she had Daniel Catton Rich, institute director, discarding his jacket and racing around in a yellow sweater and maroon tie [or was it a maroon sweater and yellow tie?] to help; and before she was really thru, she was in bed with the flu.

And the pictures still did not please her. The light was poor on some; there were reflections in the glass of others ("We had a man here once lecturing on Rembrandt," Dan Rich recalled merrily. "At the end of the lecture he took out a pocket comb and straightened his hair in the glass of 'Girl at the Open Half-Door.' That's art education for you."); and then there was the color of the gallery walls. Miss O'Keeffe is accustomed to hanging her work against a white background, and of the three galleries used for her show, only one had white walls [altho two were white before the five days had ended].

Finally, dismally surveying her magnificent study of a tree painted from below, she said wistfully, "You know, I look so nice at home in New Mexico. I do look well on adobe. I'm always surprised at how well I look against it."

It was the first time we had heard an artist so thoroly identify herself with her work. It explained the whole matter. If you were hanging yourself, you'd be meticulous, too.

Without that explanation Miss O'Keeffe's final remark would be incomprehensible. "You know," she said hesitantly, "an exhibition is a strange thing. You end by loving yourself and hating yourself at the same time."

Preves Superb with Orchestra at Witty Best

Concert by the Chicago Symphony orchestra, Hans Lange, conductor; Milton Preves, violist. Presented at Orchestra hall Thursday evening, Jan. 21, 1943. The program:

Symphony No. 5, B flat major.....Schubert
Suite for viola and orchestra.....Bloch
Symphonic poem, "Pastorale d'été".....Honegger
Suite from "Háry János".....Kodaly

BY CLAUDIA CASSIDY.

A refreshing concert of unhackneyed music, climaxed by Milton Preves' superb performance of Bloch's Suite for Viola, was the reward of attendance at Orchestra hall last night, when Hans Lange and the Chicago Symphony orchestra investigated the work of three contemporary composers, choosing Honegger and Kodály in addition to Bloch, and revived Schubert's Fifth Symphony, hitherto played by the orchestra only at Ravinia, under the direction of John Barbirolli—who as third of the season's guest conductors will take over the concerts Feb. 4 and 5.

The Bloch Suite, heard after a lapse of 15 seasons, is a strange and lovely work, curious without being esoteric, mysterious without being obscure. The solo instrument muses with an austerity sometimes tenebrous, sometimes acrid, over an orchestral background that throbs and pulsates with emotional excitement. The score is as subtly bejeweled as some dark mosaic, bewitching not only the ear, but also that inner eye that can be mesmerized into creating pictures to music.

The performance was magnificent. Mr. Lange spun the orchestra into a texture of almost fabulous beauty, so that it shimmered in a kind of iridescence, clinging to the solo instrument and yet displaying it with a sensitive reticence that was born of precision of phrasing, exactness of intonation, and the priceless quality of intuition in accent and timing. Mr. Preves played boldly, yet with acute perception, and with the haunting depth of tone that makes the viola at its best a fascinating instrument.

Engaging prelude to all this was the symphony Schubert wrote at 19, a shining little work that remembers Mozart and Haydn and other good people, and has its own fragrance as well. The performance was crystalline, delicately balanced and lightly projected, so that the rocking phrases of the slow movement took on an intoxicating lilt.

After the Bloch came Honegger's "Pastorale d'été," a somnolent sojourn into languor, now and then waving curly tails of melody in the woodwind, occasionally rousing itself to a quirk of gaiety, but always slipping back into drowsiness that would be even more charming if you could stop thinking of Debussy's "Faun."

For a finale, and a roistering one, Mr. Lange chose the galumphing suite from Kodály's "Háry János," that brilliant orchestration of folklore told by a fantastical liar, which calls for the services of the Hungarian dulcimer called the cimbalum, brilliantly beaten with skilled hammers by the orchestra's occasional visitor, Spyros Stamos.

This is the score that begins with an elaborate sneeze, chortles "You're in the Army Now" to the turn of a Viennese clock, sings a love song, tweaks Napoleon's nose, warbles a Hungarian intermezzo and winds up in a cynical hullabaloo at the slightly overtauffed elegance of imperial entrance. It is an orchestral showpiece, providing you have the orchestra. Last night's performance was witty, glittering and beguiling.

Women in War Work

By Kate Massee

Colleges must help young women to aid in winning the war, but they must not let the technical issues drive out things of the mind and spirit, Lucia R. Briggs, president of the Milwaukee-Downer college, warned yesterday at the alumnae college of the Chicago College club. The conference, which is considering war and post-war issues which confront American colleges, will continue thru tomorrow.

Mrs. John T. Windle. [Moffett Photo.]

Miss Briggs said that there are acute shortages, not only in the fields of direct war work but in the older and less glamorous professions of equal importance, such as nursing, social work, dietetics, occupational therapy, and teaching. She shared the speaker's rostrum at the afternoon session with Mary Ashby Cheek, president of Rockford college, who counseled that liberal education fosters an understanding of the fundamental concepts of democracy itself. Mrs. Oscar C. Hayward, president of the woman's college board, presided.

Last night's session was addressed by Robert B. Browne, director of the division of university extension, University of Illinois, who spoke on universities and the war; Miss Kathryn Judkins, business coordinator of the Illinois Institute of Technology, and Prof. John I. Yellott, director of the institute's war training program. Mrs. Harold M. Pulsifer is president of the College club, and Mrs. John T. Windle is vice president and chairman of the alumnae college committee.

The WAVES need buglers and drummers, and Phil Spitalny is going to see that the women's naval reserve gets some good ones. He and his all-girl orchestra are coming to Chicago today for an engagement here, and at the invitation of Lt. Mary Daily, WAVES enrollment officer, Mr. Spitalny will audition applicants for this branch next week following their regular interview in the WAVES office in room 1175 Board of Trade building. Lt. Daily said that WAVES schools need buglers and drummers for military drill but that candidates must also meet the usual enrollment requirements.

Nurses' aids will be capped this afternoon at West Suburban, St. Luke's, Cook County, and Provident hospitals, Mrs. Arthur H. Spiegel, chairman of the Red Cross Volunteer Nurses' Aid, announced. With those women who were capped yesterday at the St. Francis hospital in Blue Island and the Evanston hospital, a total of 119 will have been capped this week. The new nurses' aids have completed 40 hours of classroom study and 45 hours' practical experience in hospitals. They have pledged to spend 12 hours weekly in volunteer service in hospitals. Many more women are needed to train to help supplant the nurses called to the military services.

Forty-one more women will become members of the WEEDS [Women's Emergency Engineering Drafting society] upon their graduation today from a drafting course at the Illinois Institute of Technology. The total number of alumnæ having completed the tuition free course is in excess of 200. Mrs. Lee Green of 5139 Dorchester avenue is president of the organization.

A lone man, Julius Oppenheimer of 1247 North State street, will share graduation honors today with 49 women, when certificates will be presented for their successful completion of a course in industrial chemistry, also sponsored by Illinois Tech. Similar free training opportunities in both subjects will be available soon. A new class in industrial chemistry opens on Monday, and another section in industrial drafting will begin early in February.

Stuart J. Templeton Elected New Head of United Charities

Stuart J. Templeton of the law firm of Wilson and McIlvaine was elected president of United Charities of Chicago at the organization's annual board meeting yesterday. He succeeds Edward D. McDougal Jr., president for the last two years.

The board also elected Mrs. Joseph T. Bowen, Sewell Avery, and Bryan S. Reid as vice presidents; Solomon B. Smith, vice president and treasurer, and Joel D. Hunter, secretary. Mr. Hunter has served as general superintendent of the agency since 1919. New directors elected were the Rev. Grant Butler of St. Paul Congregational church, the Rev. Von Ogden Vogt of the First Unitarian church, and Edward H. Stulken, director of Montefiore school.

Ada Blanche Wrigley Becomes Bride Today in Miami Suburb

BY JUDITH CASS.

WHEN Miss Ada Blanche Wrigley and her younger sister, Miss Dorothy Wrigley, left for Florida last week it was with the exciting prospect of the wedding shortly of "Blannie" and William J. Hagenah Jr. Mr. and Mrs. Philip K. Wrigley followed their daughters south, and the ceremony is to take place at 5 o'clock this afternoon in St. Stephen's Episcopal church in Coconut Grove, a suburb of Miami, with the Rev. Rex Wilkes officiating.

The bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hagenah of Glencoe, and their daughter, Miss Florence Hagenah, also are in Miami. Miss Hagenah and "Deedee" Wrigley are to be bridesmaids, and Mrs. Wrigley will be matron of honor. James Harle of New York will be the best man, and Lawrence Holland of Glencoe and John Kling will usher.

Mr. Hagenah is receiving his commission as ensign from the United States Navy Cadet school in Miami today. Whether he and his bride will be able to have a wedding trip depends upon his orders. Mr. and Mrs. Wrigley and Dorothy will return to Chicago this week-end.

Proxy Engagement.

What does the white collar girl do when she becomes engaged and her own true love is far, far away? The answer was adroitly supplied by Lucy Dorris, a W. C. G. in banking circles, and a cadet stationed at a Florida air base, Charles Luebker. To assist the absentee fiancé, Papa Luebke presented himself at Lucy's home bearing the ring, slipped it on her finger and completed the assignment with a kiss.

Men of 18.

The scene is the apartment of a white collar girl and her young brother, 18. It is evening:

Jack: "O sure, Sis. I'll need a washcloth, some soap, a towel. Just a small towel. AND a razor.

Sis: "Why, Jack! You don't own a razor."

Jack: "I know, but look here [thrusts out chin for inspection]. See? I can't be around the fellows with that . . . now can I?

Sis: "O, scented."

Jack [voice reverts to adolescence]: "WHAT? SCENTED? Imagine me taking that to an army camp! Hey, haven't we got some other soap? Can't see why we don't have soap a MAN can use! [Grumbles as he goes to kitchen and returns with thick, heavy bar. Packs all in a battered bag. Goes to bed to dream of dive bombers. White collar girl sits alone . . . quite alone . . . in the room.]—Donna Strack.

War Time Personnel Problems.

It is an encouraging sign that Leonard G. Taylor, personnel training manager for a large company, finds the answer to war time employé problems is "more interest created in the job."

Pay, alone, he has discovered, is not enough of an incentive. Already the company has reinstated employés who left for higher paying jobs but who returned to their former desks because the new job lacked variety, responsibility, and human contacts.

Something paralleling student government in schools has been successfully installed in this organization. Meetings are held at which no executives are present but at which the supervisors of different departments meet with the employés of their division. New methods and new approaches to common problems are discussed and the conclusions passed along to the "higher ups." In this way the awareness of problems and the solution rests more personally upon the employés themselves.

Swanky Court House Club in N. Y. to Qait

New York, Jan. 21 [Special].—The war has so reduced the membership of the exclusive Courthouse club that it is giving up voluntarily its luxurious home in the East 60s. The furnishings are to be sold, the premises are to be occupied by a commercial photographer, and the club probably will dissolve.

Leo Mothers' Club.

Leo Mothers' club will hold its annual card party tonight in the school auditorium, 79th and Peoria streets. Mrs. L. J. Austin is chairman and Mrs. Thomas J. Curley club president.

Men in Service Abroad Tell of Their Reunions.

Letters from men serving overseas in the army or navy constantly bring news of old friendships renewed in far corners of the world. Lt. [j. g.] Everett L. Millard's friends have been hearing of mutual friends he has encountered during two trips to England and a third one to some tropical part of the globe where the thermometer registered 88 degrees on Christmas day.

Lt. Millard has run across Lt. A. Peter Dewey, wearing the croix de guerre and two other decorations, and J. de Navarre Mscomb Jr., who now is a captain in the army. Lt. Dewey is in the ferry command. Lt. Millard, who is captain of a gun crew on a merchant vessel, hopes to have a reunion somewhere in the Pacific with two other old friends, Lt. Henry W. Meers and Lt. Brayton Slade, both of the navy.

Lt. Slade, who recently was promoted to a senior grade lieutenant, feels that he is stationed at the crossroads of the world, he sees so many old friends in various branches of the service. One of them was Lt. Oakleigh L. Thorne, who is on overseas duty with the navy, and whose wife, the former Bertha Palmer, and their three children are living in Santa Barbara, Cal., for the present.

Lt. Slade Is Kept Busy at Plane Maintenance.

Lt. Slade is working long hours on the maintenance of airplanes for an entire wing command, for which he and one other officer are responsible. Lt. Slade's parents, the Arthur Slades, have three nephews serving in the different air corps. Gregory Loesch, who is 23, now is a captain in the marine air corps. His older brothers are Ensign Malcolm Loesch of the navy and Lt. Harrison Loesch of the army.

Lt. Millard's mother, the senior Mrs. Millard, will spend the winter at her Highland Park home with the exception of a trip to New York in a few weeks to see her daughter, Miss Betty Millard. Miss Millard has lived in Greenwich Village for several years, but since last spring her life has been completely different from that which she has led previously. Last April Miss Millard started to work in a navy parts factory on Long Island, and for eight months she has been operating a turret lathe and doing precision work on an arduous, full time basis.

Ensign Borland Visiting Parents with His Bride.

Ensign and Mrs. William F. Borland, who arrived on Monday from Seattle, Wash., are staying with his parents, the Bruce Borlands, during their 10 days here. Today the Borlands will give a tea for their son and his bride, the former Miss Anne Jay Bryant, daughter of the John Jay Bryants.

The Chauncey B. Borlands consider themselves a fortunate "navy family," for their daughter, Ensign Harriet Borland, is stationed here in the

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

This one flips you right out of this world! And it's a good world to get out of now and then—or are you telling me?

"Arabian Nights" is just alive with what it takes. As listen—two great big, beautiful he-men as heroes; a ge-or-geous maiden for heroine; fat, funny hombres as comedy; dark, slinking, fascinating ones for villains; Sabu for ingénue; myriads of beautiful dancing girls; tumblers, camels, Arabian horses, desert sands, a slave market, and so on and so on and so on—ALL in technicolor. . . . "1001 thrills from 1001 nights . . ."

"Arabian Nights," collected and translated from the Arabic by Burton and Lane, has served as bases for many colorful photoplays, comical and otherwise. . . . This trip, the dancing girl, Sherazade, who supposedly told the original stories, one a night, to stave off her execution, is a maid determined to wed a caliph.

Two brother caliphs love her, and on this situation hangs the tale. One [Jon Hall] is a good caliph. The other [Leif Erikson] is bad. Each brother has his supporters and mêlées are many.

Thru all the confusion Sherazade shines forth like a rare jewel in a crazy setting. This Maria Montez is a lady to reckon with. She is exquisite to see; she has poise and a delicately arrogant charm that you'll love. It seemed to me there was more than play acting in the rivalry for her favors—but then I'm always one to be thinking I see things.

Leif Erikson is a fascinating bad caliph. I am so sorry the producer didn't see fit to give him Jon Hall's rôle. Just personal taste—because Jon does all right, too. . . . Intriguingly present in the cast are Shemp Howard as Sinbad the Sailor; Sabu, as a devotee of Jon, and Turhan Bey, as a handsome snake in the grass.

See you tomorrow.

Duet of Simple Patterns

MISS' MID-WINTER DRESSES.

Especially if you're just embarking on a home dressmaking plan, you like to have the patterns you use simple to cut and follow. These two designs are simplicity itself, as the diagram explains. One model is a two piece frock with no trimming, except your own jewelry. The other is a softly styled jumper with casual blouse.

Style No. 3249 is designed for sizes 10, 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20. Size 16 requires 3½ yards of 39 inch fabric.

Style No. 3090 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20, and 36, 38, and 40 inch bust measurements. Size 16 requires 2⅞ yards of 35 inch or 2¼ yards of 39 inch material; for short sleeved blouse, 2⅛ yards of 35 inch or 1⅞ yards of 39 inch material.

3249 SIZES 10-20

3090 SIZES 12-40

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin, plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost (coin preferred—wrap it carefully), for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT: Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired and write your name and address plainly. The Clotilde pattern book costs 15 cents, 10 cents if ordered with a pattern.

Thru the Looking Glass

The fact that precious silk or nylon hose will snag or tear far more quickly if the skin of the feet is rough is only one reason for giving special attention to feet these days. An even more important one is efficiency.

You might think that only orchids would be interested in a foot kit containing foot lotion, pumice, a lovely softening cream, a pair of bedsocks and some cooling powder. You'd be wrong. It's a boon for the business woman, and she is its biggest purchaser.

With the kit you get a little brochure outlining some wonderful exercises that you can do in a jiffy and that help your feet bear their daily burden with comfort and fortitude.

Pumice is used to smooth down the little callouses; the cream for soothing massage and for skin softening. You'll put an end to red, rough spots if you cream your feet nightly, then tuck them in their little socks so the skin may lap up all the cream it needs. The lotion is a refeshant, and a particularly bracing one if you use it cold. Keeping it in the refrigerator is a good trick. The powder, dusted over your toes and inside your shoes, will help keep your feet cool and comfortable for hours on end.

THE STAGE . . . . . By Cecil Smith

On no authority whatever, this column recently made the intuitive prediction that a Chicago company of "The Doughgirls" might soon be formed. Evidently this prediction arose out of a proper instinct, for the imminent organization of such a company has been announced in New York. According to present prospects, the Chicago opening will be about March 7. "The Doughgirls" deals with the lively escapades of three war time working girls in Washington. It is a solo composition by Joseph Fields, who collaborated with Jerome Chodorov in "My Sister Eileen" and "Junior Miss."

I should be fulfilling less than my duty, and far less than my desire, if I failed to call attention once more to Ruth Draper's single appearance at the Civic theater on Sunday afternoon. There is, of course, always a danger of overselling a theatrical product by claiming too much for it in advance, and even "This Is the Army" suffered somewhat from the inflated expecations of some of its patrons.

"Lady in the Dark," a smashing success at the Civic Opera house, offers its only Sunday evening performance this week. In subsequent weeks Sunday will be Gertrude Lawrence's day of rest.

Board of Trade building with the WAVES. Ensign Borland returned to Chicago last month after receiving her officer's training at Mount Holloke college. The Borlands' other two daughters are living in the east, Mrs. Barton F. Plimpton in Framingham Centre, Mass., and Mrs. James M. Willis in New York, her ensign husband's home port.

The American Friends of China have been invited to a tea at the Tavern on Wednesday, Feb. 3, to hear Dr. Esson M. Gale speak on "Innermost China and the Airway to It."

Museum to Give Preview of New Archaeology Hall.

The Field Museum of Natural History has sent out gay yellow cards printed in a red Indian motif to announce a preview of the first completed section of the museum's Hall of the Archæology of the New World from noon to 4 o'clock next Monday. The general public will be admitted on Tuesday to the new hall, which portrays Indian civilizations as they were found by the white men who first came to North, Central, and South America. Mrs. George A. Richardson and Mrs. William B. Greenlee will be hostesses at tea, which will be served from 3 to 4 on Monday.

Philip and Diane Starck soon will be welcoming a newcomer to their nursery in the Lake Shore drive home of their parents, the Philip A. Starcks. The Starcks' second daughter was born on Tuesday in Passavant hospital. Mrs. Philip T. Starck and Mrs. Edward W. Lloyd are the children's grandparents.

Mr. and Mrs. Milford H. Schulhof of Greenleaf avenue announce the engagement of their daughter, Dorothy Jane, to Lt. Paul Oberndorf of the army, son of Mr. and Mrs. Max L. Oberndorf of Lake Shore drive. The wedding will take place on Feb. 6 in Savannah, Ga.

Looking at Hollywood . . . . By Hedda Hopper

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 21.—Metro still battles radio, but nevertheless they've cornered the market on band leaders who made their success in radio. Imagine having Harry James, Tommy Dorsey, and Kay Kyser on the same lot, each making a picture. Producer Arthur Freed told me that despite all the stars in "Du Barry Was a Lady," it was Tommy Dorsey who got the biggest hand at the preview. Harry James' fans are going to do nip-ups when they see him dance with Nancy Walker in "Best Foot Forward." Of course, James has the chassis for a dancer, but it was Chuck Walters who taught him the routine. Chuck, incidentally, is the one who danced with Betty Grable on the stage in "Du Barry," and Judy Garland begged so hard for him that he'll be her partner in one of the numbers in "Girl Crazy." To me it seems a crime that a performer like Chuck should give it up, to create and direct other people who aren't nearly as good in the things that he does so beautifully. . . . The set of "Best Foot Forward" was covered with kids—girls and boys from 14 to 17—their mothers, music teachers, dance instructors, school teachers, and most of Metro's producers. I didn't blame them. These kids are sweet and fresh.

Berlin Takes Hollywood.

At Jack Warner's plush luncheon for Irving Berlin, news was whispered of what was happening in the Flynn case. . . . Irving, as usual, was his modest, charming self. When Jack praised him for what he'd done with "This Is the Army," Berlin said, "I'm no fool—I deserve some of the credit, but there are 300 boys who helped put this show together." It's done 2 million dollars' worth of business to date, and when they finish the picture, Irving expects to take it to Australia and to entertain our boys in South Africa, London or anywhere they happen to be at that time, ending up, he hopes, in Russia, where he was born and which country he left when 5 years old. . . . Republic's Jane Withers was invited to see "This Is the Army" opening with Pvt. Bill Shirley, who discovered all seats were sold. So he appealed to his colonel—now he's got 'em!

Never Can Tell.

When Eugenie Leontovich and Elena Miramova thought up a funny idea for a play last summer [which has hit New York under the title of "Dark Eyes," with the authoresses starred in it], little did they dream that Greta Garbo would want to do it as a picture, and that two companies would be bidding for the rights to it—Metro and Twentieth Century. Joe Pasternak is the man most anxious to produce it. . . . Gabriel Pascal has a cable from George Bernard Shaw saying it's all a lot of eyewash about Monty Woolley or anybody else doing his life. He won't entertain the idea. Pascal's England-bound with Maxwell Anderson, to stage "The Eve of St. Mark" over there. . . .

In Stride Again.

Mae West has snared Billy Gaxton for her lead in "Tropicana," a South American musical. Well, she did all right by Cary Grant in "She Done Him Wrong"—which could have been called "She Done Him Right!" And I understand Greg Ratoff, who'll direct it, is bringing out that colored bombshell, Hazel Scott, for a part in it, too. . . . While Bette Davis and Miriam Hopkins frown at each other, Olivia De Havilland and Ida Lupino, who're working together on "Devotion," lunch together daily. Even their dogs are carrying on a romance! . . . Englishman John Sutton has to learn a few sentences in Hindustani so he can use them on Joan Fontaine in "Jane Eyre."

"It would be amusing if it wasn't so incessant," sighed a mother.

"As you know," she continued, "my older sister has been staying with us for the last few months, but I'm afraid if she stayed for years she'd never get used to our harum-scarum sons.

"Doug is 11 and Harry 9, and, of course, they say and do the most unexpected things. Noisy or rough, quiet or gentle by turns, it's impossible to tell what's going on in their minds. For instance, Doug is a basketball fiend, and he's forever 'passing the ball' to Harry, around or over his grandmother, his aunt, or me. Mother and I are used to it, but his aunt gets very much upset and shows it. Then the teasing begins, and I have to intervene. Or, Harry brings home the most amazing yarns. Half of them I'm sure, he weaves out of his fertile imagination merely to try to top something Doug has told us, which is authentic. They use expressions they know aren't quite proper and watch to see how we register. Their aunt always shows proper amazement . . ."

Mothers and fathers certainly have to take things as they come where children are concerned. A "poker face," as I have said before, is a valuable asset in our contacts with youngsters, and should be well cultivated. If you don't already possess one, it is possible to practice the art—and to use it when the need arises.

For any one living with children, life is full of surprises. I might say, in fact, full of shocks. A poker face often acts as a shock absorber, and goodness knows you need one with the searching questions they ask, the tales they relate, and the remarks they blurt out. At any moment they may tell you something that will arouse in you a quick feeling of dismay, horror, anger, or eagerness to hear more. But for their sakes, for the help you can be to them, for the understanding it may give you, you must not show these emotions.

If you do, your children are often scared away. Little tentative, timid, reachings-out, confidences that are hard to make, fly for cover at the rude awakening of too much emotion on your part.

FASHIONS
By ANGELA

Clothes for the business girl should include a neat basic dress of dark color for business, a soft little dress for afternoon parties or informal dinners, and a tailored daytime dress for inbetween occasions.

At the left is the basic dress of black rayon crêpe. It is shirtwaist style, dressed up with fagotting around the notched collar and the tabs on the pockets. There is fullness across the back of the blouse provided by rows of shirring just above the waistline . . . gives free action. The dress comes both in misses and women's sizes . . . 12 to 20 or 38 to 40. Under $9.

In the center is a beau-catcher, available in red, blue, aqua or winter white. Little chubby bow-knots of corded material of the same color as the dress are sewed onto the yoke. Don't overlook the slot pockets at the side of the skirt fullness.

The third, a dickey dress, is of a plain colored rayon material with a polka dot vest and belt. Saddle stitching outlines the pockets, cuffs, and dress front. One color combination is light blue with a navy polka dot vest; or light green with brown vest; or red with navy. Under $8.

Latest Scarfs Flatter Heads and Show Hair

BY REA SEEGER.

Disapproving and disgruntled designers finally have done something about discouraging headlines tied up in anything-but-flattering head scarfs. If you insist upon hiding all your beautiful locks or exquisitely coiffed hair under the bushel-basket anonymity of a three cornered scarf, even if it is fringed, at least tie up your hair with something feminine and face flattering. It's quite possible with the newest kinds in the shops, flowered fascinators. They are just what they sound, lovely scarfs of wide open mesh patterned crocheted yarn.

Fastened around the edge, where they will do the most telling flattery, are the flowers made of crisp white and colored pique. The flowers are about the same size and botanical formation as dogwood blossoms in the spring. Cool creamy white, four-petaled affairs are attached to the yarn scarf by the centers of yarn knots, the same shade as the scarf. There are stunning pewter gray models with the white piqué blossoms, a light brown scarf with coral pink blossoms, and plenty of navy and black with the white.

When tied artfully in place around the head, a springtime garland effect is achieved. Far removed from the dated snood effects, these floral fascinators assure face flattery of fresh springtime charm. The hair shows, and the dull, dumpy, frumpy look of the sexless head shawls, we hope, are out of the parade forever.

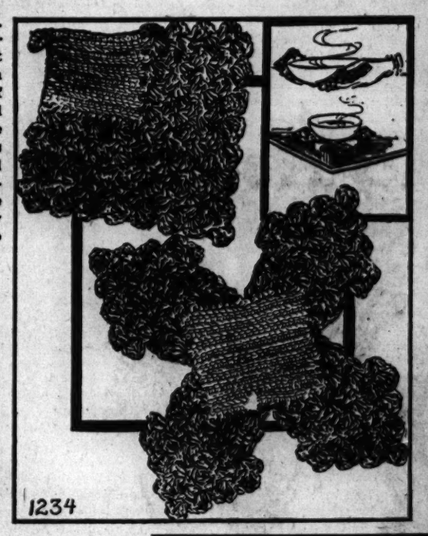
Other clever new fascinators employ trick plastic buttons and simulated flower buttons in contrasting colors. For instance, a navy blue crocheted yarn scarf is accented with red and blue flower buttons. Some are crocheted with scintillating gold or silver threads, others are sewn with penny size and colored sequins and others twinkle with little jet beads. All are devastating.

For Handling Hot Food

BY ELLEN BEUCH.

Crocheted potholders and hot plate mats done in a combination of single crochet and shell stitch create attractive pieces for kitchen and dining room decoration. They are inexpensively made and work up rapidly.

For instructions in crocheting the potholders and hot plate mats, No. 1234, send 10 cents in stamps or coin, plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost, to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth av., New York City.



Mrs. Pouch Praises D. A. R. War Activity on Visit to Chicago

Daughters of the American Revolution were praised for their war work in 1942 and urged to even greater service yesterday by Mrs. William H. Pouch, president general of the patriotic society, in an address in Curtiss hall, Fine Arts building.

Mrs. Pouch came from Washington, D. C., at the invitation of Chicago chapter of the D. A. R. It is seldom that an individual chapter receives a visit from the president general, and chapter members, state officials, and regents of other D. A. R. units in the Chicago vicinity attended the meeting in large numbers.

Nutrition Knowledge Vital Under Rationing, P. T. A. Leaders Told

Panel consultants at the annual health and roundup conference of the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers yesterday warned P. T. A. leaders that housewives must have knowledge of food and nutrition to defeat problems that will arise with rationing.

Dr. W. W. Bauer, director of health education for the American Medical association, headed a discussion on "Building Health for Tomorrow," in the association auditorium, 535 North Dearborn street. Panel leaders told parents that a child may best be immunized against diphtheria and smallpox when he is less than 1 year old.

Assisting Dr. Bauer in the discussion were Dr. H. W. Elghammer, pediatrician of the Illinois Medical society; Dr. Elizabeth Ball, Illinois department of public health; Miss Leone Pazourek, state nutrition consultant; A. H. Pritzlaff, director of physical education in Chicago schools, and Dr. L. H. Dodds, director of health education for the Illinois Dental society.

BLACKHAWKS' RALLY TIES CANADIENS, 4 TO 4

SAVOLD, BOLDEN HEAD STADIUM SHOW TONIGHT

Comiskey, Worlds in Semi-Windup.

BY FRANK MASTRO.

Nate Bolden, 1937 Chicago intercity Golden Gloves middleweight winner, will face Lee Savold in a 10 round bout heading the opening show of the year in Chicago Stadium tonight.

Bolden, 25 years old and a recent graduate to the light heavyweight class, will be meeting the sixth leading challenger for a shot at Sergt. Joe Louis' title in the Paterson, N. J., heavyweight. As he does not expect to weigh more than 174 pounds when he steps on the scales in the Illinois Athletic commission offices this afternoon, Nate will give away approximately 20 pounds.

Savold Is a Slugger.

This disadvantage, as well as the fact that Lee is a better than average boxer and punches with authority in either hand, make tonight's fight a dangerous one for the Chicago Negro.

Bolden has beaten Johnny Colan and others in the last year. Colan, who weighed 179, was one of the heaviest opponents Nate has been asked to face.

Pat Comiskey, giant stablemate of Savold, will make his Chicago debut in a 10 round semi-windup against Clayton Worlds, also a Golden Gloves alumnus. Comiskey expects to win by a knockout, but the rangy Clayton [he is 6 feet 4 inches tall] is no soft touch. In his third professional start last September the south sider beat Altus Allen, and he may duplicate the feat against big Pat.

Four months ago Alfred [Big Boy] Brown of Detroit beat Comiskey and what Brown did Clayton is sure he can accomplish. That's due to the fact that Worlds eliminated Brown in the 1941 Golden Gloves Tournament of Champions.

Franklin Battles Allen.

In the first 10 round match Lem Franklin, former International Golden Gloves heavyweight champion, will attempt to open a comeback campaign against Allen. Franklin, who only last summer was being heralded as Louis' successor, was stopped in the first round by Sergt. Joe Muscato in Cleveland on June 23.

Since Altus scored a fourth round knockout over Muscato last Nov. 13, Franklin may be dealt another crushing defeat.

Six round preliminary contests will bring together Hank Postaway, Wyandotte, Mich., and Hubert Hood, 1942 Chicagoland Golden Gloves heavyweight titleholder, and Lindy Elliott, 220 pounder from New York, and Vince Calzaretto, Palos Park.

In the Wake of the News

JOHNNY GOTTSELIG, the Blackhawk coach, is still the idol of Stadium fans. . . . The moment John appears before a game, the organist gives out with "O, Johnny, O," which is a signal for applause from all sides. . . . Most of the Detroit Tigers will travel north for spring training this year. . . . The group which will leave sunnier climes for the Evansville camp includes Jimmy Bloodworth of Appalachicola, Fla.; Pinky Higgins of Dallas, Tex.; Don Ross of Pasadena, Cal.; Dixie Parsons of Beaumont, Tex.; Rudy York of Atco, Ga., and Virgil Trucks of Gulfport, Miss. . . . Charles [Deacon] Smith, 66 year old Detroit bowler, has been competing in league matches weekly for more than 50 years and still is waiting for his first perfect game. . . . The closest he ever came was a 299 in the city tournament in 1919. . . . He is confident, however, that he will attain his goal in the next 50 years. . . . Broadway Jack Doyle, the widely known betting commissioner who died recently, is credited with the introduction of snooker pool in New York City. . . . Ensign Ray L. Mallouff, former Southern Methodist and Chicago Cardinal back, is helping condition flyers at the Navy Pre-Flight school in Athens, Ga. . . . Staff Sergt. Alec Shellogg, who was elected captain of the 1938 Notre Dame football team, but who left school a few days after his election, is a member of the army air force and is stationed at Miami Beach. . . . Commissioner Elmer Layden of the National Football league should be commended for his decision in the case of Sammy Baugh. . . . There was no evidence that Sammy's failure to appear in the Pro Bowl game in Philadelphia was intentional. . . . On the contrary, it was brought out that the Redskin star, altho ill, made every effort to keep the date. . . . If censure is due, the Wake believes it should be directed at the promoters, who neglected to ascertain until the eve of the game whether or not their star attraction was on hand. . . . At any rate, Sammy's absence was due to conditions beyond the commissioner's control. . . . His finding was the only one that could have been made under the circumstances. . . . A Pittsburgh sports columnist uses a picture of Fritz Reiner, conductor of the city symphony orchestra, with the following explanation: "Pittsburgh's other Fritzie—Zivic—nosed out Mr. Reiner last year in the news photograph race, so we're using Reiner today to give him a head start on the new year."

GOLDEN GLOVES PHYSICAL EXAMS START TONIGHT

Open, Novice Fighters to Report at Trafton's.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The first group of Golden Gloves boxers will report for their physical examinations tonight between 6 and 8 p. m. in Trafton's gymnasium, 180 West Randolph street. All amateur boxers who have received letters of instruction and parental consent cards are eligible for this examination.

The 16th annual tournaments, sponsored by The Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., are sanctioned by the central association of the A. A. U. Registration clerks will be present tonight to greet the boxers. They then will pass to the staff of Golden Gloves physicians, who will determine their physical qualifications.

Both experienced and novice boxers will report tonight. Each contestant may choose the sectional tournament in which he wishes to compete but it is presumed that each will choose the tournament nearest his home. The south side trials will be held Feb. 1 and 2 in the St. Sabina gymnasium, 78th street and Racine avenue. If necessary, this tournament can be extended one night.

Three Nights at Loyola.

The north side trials start Feb. 3 in the Loyola university gymnasium, Sheridan road and Loyola avenue. This tournament will continue for three evenings.

The Tribune Charities will pay the A. A. U. registration fee for the novice boxers. The open division boxers probably already are registered with the A. A. U. since a card, issued for one year, is required for competition in any match sanctioned by the association.

There are eight weight classes in each of the novice and open divisions. These are 112 pounds, 118 pounds, 126 pounds, 135 pounds, 147 pounds, 160 pounds, 175 pounds, and heavyweight. A one pound allowance is permitted so that the maximum weight in the flyweight class, for instance, will be 113 pounds.

They Must Be Fit.

Subsequent physical examinations for the 1943 Chicago sectional tournaments will be held Tuesday night in the C. Y. O. gymnasium, 31 East Congress street, and next Friday night in Trafton's gym. Boys entering the tournament up to midnight Wednesday will receive letters admitting them to the final examinations a week from tonight.

Among the entries received yesterday was that of Al Nero, 3002 Narragansett avenue. He has had 12 bouts and he represents the Irving Park Y. M. C. A. The United States coast guard will be represented by Robert Gorman and John K. Wickers. Both are novice boxers.

Another novice, who fights for the Savoy Athletic club, is Louis Jenkins. These are a random sample from the day's mail. About 200 are expected to qualify for the last physical examination.

29th Petersen Pin Tourney Attracts 832

BY C. H. BEUKEMA.

Bowling's richest event, the 29th Petersen Individual Classic, will open tomorrow in the Archer-35th Recreation center, with two squads of 32 men shooting eight games across 16 alleys. The remaining 24 squads will have their chance during the nine day period ending Jan. 31.

The tournament is the largest in the event's history, 832 bowlers being entered. Each will shoot for the $4,000 prize, top among 40 regular prizes. One hundred and twenty squad prizes also will be offered, including $100 for the high man on each squad. The prize money will total $20,800.

Stars to Compete.

The first squad will go on the alleys at 5:30 tomorrow and will be followed by the second at 8:30. Three squads are scheduled Sunday, the first at 1 p. m. and the second at 4 and the third at 7:30. Two squads are booked for each night, Monday thru Thursday next week, three on Friday, and five each on Saturday and Sunday.

Tomorrow's opening squad will include Eddie Zajac, a former winner of the event; George Vogel and Jim Frana of the Vogel Brothers team, 1941 A. B. C. champions, and Jerry Skovie and Joe Braskich, who competed in the recent All-Star tournament.

Plan Women's Tourney.

The week-end also brings the closing date for entries in the women's counterpart of the Petersen Classic, the second annual Women's Individual Classic, scheduled for Jan. 30 and 31 at Bowling Lanes, 5221 Broadway. Indications are that the entry will pass 150, according to Ralph Olsen of Bowling Lanes. An entry of 150 will provide a total of $2,250 in prizes.

Jacob Bietila, Father of Skiing Family, Dies at 58

Ishpeming, Mich., Jan. 21 (AP).—Jacob Bietila, 58 years old, father of the flying Bietilas, America's most famous skiing family, died at his home here today. A native of Finland, Bietila came to Ishpeming when he was 17 years old and had been employed as an ore miner until his retirement a year ago. His six sons became famous for ski jumping. In succession major honors went to Anselm, Leonard, Walter, Paul, Roy, and Ralph.

Paul Waner, Cooney Sign with Dodgers

New York, Jan. 21 (AP).—Paul Waner and John Cooney, two of the oldest players in the major leagues and both former Dodgers, were brought back into the Brooklyn fold today by Branch Rickey less than 48 hours after they had been released by the Boston Braves. The Dodger president announced his action along with an assortment of other information which included:

1. George Sisler, one of baseball's all-time great first basemen, will be a scout for the Dodgers in a new plan that will carry the search for talent to youthful sandlotters.

2. Pitcher Louis [Bobo] Newsom came here to see Rickey last Sunday, looked in good condition, and promised to win 20 games in 1943.

Hugh Casey In S A.

3. Pitcher Hugh Casey, who had announced his intention of enlisting in the coast guard, replied to an inquiry from the club that he was classified 3-A in the draft and made no mention of any service.

4. First Baseman Babe Dahlgren has been sold outright to Indianapolis of the American association.

5. Leo Durocher, still undergoing a checkup at Mayo clinic, will remain the Brooklyn manager right up till he is called for military service, if he is.

Besides Sisler, one time star and manager of the St. Louis Browns, Rickey disclosed that he had hired as scouts two members of the staff of the St. Louis Cardinals, Wid Matthews and Bob Finch.

COONEY, WANER PLEASED.

Sarasota, Fla., Jan. 21 (AP).—John Cooney and Paul Waner said tonight they still had plenty of major league baseball in their systems and believe they would have good seasons with the Dodgers. Cooney, 41 year old outfielder and first baseman, said he thought he could at least hold on until Pete Reiser comes back from the war.

Waner, 40, said he believed he could add plenty of hits to the 3,000 mark he achieved last season. He was one of seven all-time players to make over 3,000 hits and said he hoped to be in second place in the record before he called it quits.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Blackhawks, who in the past have been more distinguished for blowing early leads than for coming from behind, submitted to a 3 to 0 deficit in the first period of their game with the Montreal Canadiens last night in the Stadium before 7,451. Thereafter, the Chicagoans rallied for three goals while the Canadiens were making one in the second period.

Then, with the score 4 to 3, and two minutes and 1 second of the game remaining, Red Hamill scored the tally which gave the Hawks a 4 to 4 tie and enabled them to stay a game and a half ahead of the fifth place Montreal team.

During that first period the Hawks were in the throes of deep pensiveness which caused them to look more helpless than in any 20 minute period in several years. The Canadiens were sharp enough, but the Hawks were terrible.

The Chicagoans, during this miserable span perhaps were wondering if that wicked green light which robbed them of victory last Sunday night, was in working order. At the end of the period they found the light was all right but the score wasn't.

Seibert Sets Off Rally.

Earl Seibert made the first Chicago goal in 8:48 of the second period. It was on a whizzer solo shot after Earl had picked up the rubber a foot inside the blue. Doug Bentley made the first of his two goals on a pitch shot in 9:57 of the same period. Brothers Max and Reg earned assists.

The Hawks by this time were sizzling hot but missed by inch fractions on several near-tying forays. Then, in 15:47 Montreal took a 4 to 2 lead as Joe Benoit, standing unguarded in front of the cage took a forward pass from Toe Blake on his left boards and shot the puck home.

Doug Does It Again.

The Hawks got their third goal in 17:07. Jack Portland of Montreal was off for holding and Doug Bentley scored out of the ensuing power play. Mush March and Max Bentley were credited with deserved assists.

The Canadiens tightened their defense in the final period and were highly successful until Hamill rammed home the rebound of a shot by Doug Bentley. Doug got an assist for his third individual point of the evening and Seibert also got an assist for his second individual credit.

The first of the three first period Montreal goals was scored in 3:27 after John Mahaffy and Charley Sands both had got well past Seibert and Tuten. Sands gave the rubber to the rookie in middle ice and Mahaffy easily beat Goalie Bert Gardiner.

Sands Gets His Chance.

It was Sands' turn to score and Mahaffy's to assist on the second Montreal goal, accomplished in 15:33. Mahaffy stole the puck from Reg Bentley, then outskated Reg to get the puck to Sands near the cage.

Then Buddy O'Connor took the puck near his own blue line, brushed aside two Hawk players assigned to defense play, and went on blithely in his solo effort to beat Gardiner with a hard, oblique shot. The time of this one was 18:01, or 1 minute and 59 seconds before the green light.

Once they had seen the green light work, the Hawks went to work and and were rewarded by a most welcome ninth tie of the season, their third in competition with the Canadiens.

Vocational High Beats Kelly Wrestlers, 5 to 4

Chicago Vocational High school defeated Kelly in a wrestling meet yesterday in the Vocational gymnasium, five bouts to four, with one match ending in a draw. Art Piotrowski, Vocational heavyweight, won the deciding match when he pinned Bob Broda in 32 seconds.

WELLS KNOCKED OUT OF LEAD BY KELVYN PARK

Austin Beats McKinley to Tie for Third.

Kelvyn Park High school seniors stretched their winning streak to four in the west section of the City Basketball league yesterday by defeating Wells, 40 to 27, and dropping the latter out of a first place tie. Kelvyn Park and Crane Tech now are the only undefeated schools in the west section senior division. Pete Coorlas popped in 16 points for Kelvyn Park, which led, 21 to 14, at the half.

Austin tied Marshall for third place in the west section with its 32 to 15 victory over McKinley on the Austin floor. Austin enjoyed a 15 to 6 lead at the half. Its leading scorer was Chuck Allen with five field goals. Foreman handed Medill its fourth straight west section defeat, 50 to 18, on the victors' court. It was Foreman's second victory in four games.

Hirsch Beats Bowen Twice.

Hirsch won two games from Bowen on the Hirsch floor, the seniors winning, 41 to 30, and the juniors, 44 to 28. Hyde Park stopped Harper in a double header at Hyde Park. The seniors won, 36 to 31, and the juniors, with Johnny Bowen scoring 15 points, were victorious, 37 to 27.

Garden Group Asks Curb on Rabbit Raids

BY BOB BECKER.

The way rabbits are destroying small trees and shrubs [as reported in this department several days ago], and the possibility of the cottontails consuming much needed garden produce in the spring, have brought the following letter from Lester J. Norris, chairman of the state victory garden committee of Illinois, who points out that the time has come for some kind of a control campaign against the cottontails. Mr. Norris' letter follows:

"Your article in THE TRIBUNE on rabbit depredations struck a responsive note with the Illinois state victory garden committee and gardeners generally.

"My committee has recommended that the game laws be changed so that suburbanites can either shoot or trap rabbits.

"In 1942 Illinois led the nation with 600,000 gardens. This year we are shooting for at least 1,000,000. It is essential that we produce and save all food we can this year and that the individual be as self-sufficient as possible. The idea may seem a minor one, but actually rabbits can do much to destroy our goals here in Illinois."

That rabbits last year did inflict heavy damage on many gardens around Chicago is true, judging from the experiences of gardeners in the suburb where we live. And Mr. Norris is right about the laws prohibiting trapping of rabbits. We asked the conservation department about this problem. It reports that permits will be given to trap rabbits in box traps wherever they are a nuisance.

Present Awards

The Purdue club of Chicago last night presented the Noble E. Kizer most valuable high school football player awards to Robert J. Kelly of Leo High school in the Catholic league and Ray Schumacher of Tilden Tech High school in the City league for the season of 1942. Charles W. Morey, an alumnus of Purdue university, made the presentation at a buffet dinner in the Bismarck hotel.

Bob Kelly, the highest scoring player in the state for 1942, after being nominated by his teammates, was selected as the league's most valuable by a committee consisting of five league coaches, five officials from the league and Father James E. McDonnell, president of the Catholic league and Mr. Harry H. Clark, president of the Purdue club of Chicago.

Schumacher, now a student at Purdue, was chosen by his teammates after a close race with Eddie Uvodich for the honor of representing Tilden High school. The committee which finally selected Schumacher consisted of five officials from the league, six sports writers and Mr. Clark. Schumacher and Uvodich were co-captains of the championship 1942 Tilden team.

Emerson Tightens Hold on 2d; Beats Froebel, 38-37

Emerson of Gary strengthened its hold on second place in the western division of the Northern Indiana conference basketball race here last night by defeating Froebel of Gary, 38 to 37. It was Emerson's seventh league victory against one defeat. Lew Wallace of Gary is in first place with seven consecutive victories. Hammond defeated Washington of East Chicago, 48 to 34, in the only other conference game last night.

MANLEY DEFEATS KELLY, 41 TO 39, FOR 4TH IN ROW

Gage Park Stops Du Sable in Overtime.

Manley High school juniors won their fourth straight victory in the central section of the City league yesterday by defeating Kelly, 41 to 39. It was the second defeat in three starts for Kelly. Playing on his home floor, Izzy Fields of Manley dropped in 14 points and his basket in the last five seconds of play gave Manley its victory.

Gage Park had to battle into an overtime before defeating Du Sable, 42 to 39, on the Gage Park court. The regulation game ended, 37 to 37. Ed Polanski and Frank La Porte sparked Gage Park's attack, each sinking 14 points.

Harrison, Farragut Win.

Harrison won its third central section junior game in four starts and Farragut won its second in three attempts. Harrison beat Phillips, 44 to 36, and Farragut edged out Lindblom, 35 to 32. Augie Granzig was high point man for Harrison with 14 points and Glenn Sawyer led Farragut with 21.

South Shore swept its south section double header with Calumet, recording its fourth straight victory in both divisions. The juniors won their game, 49 to 42, and the seniors, 61 to 29.

LEAFS WHIP RANGERS.

TORONTO, Ont., Jan. 21 (AP).—The Toronto Maple Leafs defeated the New York Rangers, 7 to 4, tonight in a game which packed most of its scoring in the final period.

The Maple Leafs moved into the lead in the second period on goals by Jack Forsey and Babe Pratt, but the crowd of 9,563 had little chance to get excited until the third period, which produced nine goals and a fight.

The fight started with New York's Ott Heller rushing Bud Poile of Toronto after a tussle along the boards. Reg Hamilton of the Leafs and Bryan Hextall of the Rangers rushed to the assistance of their teammates and immediately became embroiled. They went to the ice with Hextall on top, still hammering away. Hextall and Hamilton were given minor penalties and had to be separated by policemen when they attempted to continue their fight in the box. Lineup:

Navy Pier Boxing Team Scores Over Fort Custer, 5 to 3

Navy pier beat Fort Custer, five bouts to three, in a Service Men's Amateur Boxing league match on the pier last night. The result lifted the pier team into first place in the standings ahead of Camp Grant, while the setback pushed Fort Custer from third to fourth position.

The 87th Street Naval Training school, which won by default from the University of Chicago Radio school, went into third place. Only two knockouts were scored on the five bout card—the pier won two by default and Fort Custer one—and the pier delivered both. Results:

Marine Joe Wilkerson, pier, knocked out Lawrence Drew, Fort Custer [2], 1:26; Lou Drish, Fort Custer, beat Sergio Bonetti, pier [3], 1:35; George Bray, pier, beat Willie Glenn, Fort Custer [3], 1:47; Mike Biskovich, pier, knocked out Bob Ross, Fort Custer [2], 1:00; James Ivory, Fort Custer, beat Steven Self, pier [3], 1:75.

NAVY TO ENLIST BOYS OF 17 FOR PILOT TRAINING

Six Month Quota 1,400; Age Cut a Year.

Youths 17 years old now may enlist in the navy for pilot training, it was announced yesterday by the Chicago office of the naval aviation cadet selection board, in the Board of Trade building, 141 West Jackson boulevard. Previously, the minimum age for service in any branch of the navy has been 18 years.

Chicago has a monthly quota of 250 navy pilot recruits in the 17 year old group for January, February, March and April, and 200 each in May and June, it was said by Lt. Henry D. Penfield, executive officer. Lt. Comm. Carl G. Olson is in charge of the board here.

Will Not Be Called Until 18.

"The 17 year olds are the only men we can accept for our pilot training course and this necessitates some fairly exacting requirements," Lt. Penfield said.

"The recruits who pass naval aviation cadet examinations will not be called into training until they reach their 18th birthdays and graduate from high school."

Applicants for enlistment must be recommended by their high school principal or college head.

Must Stand Well in Classes.

They must have a scholastic standing in the upper half of their high school class, or upper two-thirds of college class, and a mathematics background is essential. They will be enlisted as apprentice seamen, class V-5, and later transferred to aviation cadet.

"I point out," said Lt. Penfield, "that young men should make sure they are eligible before applying. This will save their time and ours."

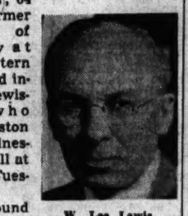
ARRIVE AT OPEN VERDICT IN DEATH OF W. LEE LEWIS

A coroner's jury yesterday returned an open verdict in the death of W. Lee Lewis, 64 years old, former professor of chemistry at Northwestern university and inventor of lewisite gas, who died in Evanston hospital Wednesday after a fall at his home Tuesday.



W. Lee Lewis.

The jury found Lewis' death was caused by fractures of the skull and the back, but said it was unable to determine whether his fall was accidental or otherwise.

Lewis was found lying on a concrete driveway by his wife Myrtilla, after he had fallen 14 feet from a porch or deck above. He had been in ill health for several months.

Funeral arrangements had not been completed yesterday.

80 POLICEMEN OFFER BLOOD.

Thirty policemen from the Central station answered a call for blood donors yesterday after Detective Guy Willoughby, 50 years old, of 48 North Parkside avenue, was taken to Garfield park hospital critically ill with pernicious anemia.

REPORT OF PLAN FOR WHEAT PEG LOWERS PRICES

Corn and Oats Prices Dip; Rye Rallies to Gain.

Denies Ceiling Plan

Washington, D. C., Jan. 21 (AP).—Secretary of Agriculture Claude Wickard said today he had "heard of proposals" to place ceilings on prices of wheat, but that he knew "nothing about them" The secretary was told at a press conference that it had been reported in trade circles that the OPA was seeking his approval to such ceilings. "The matter has not been brought to my attention," he said.

Reports that the office of price administration planned to place a ceiling price on cash wheat to prevent an advance above a level that would endanger the flour ceiling had a depressing effect on most grain prices yesterday. Wheat prices on the Chicago Board of Trade declined about ¾ cent at one time under scattered commission house selling and failed to show much rallying power, closing ⅝ to ½ cent lower.

Other grains were affected by the action of wheat. Corn was ⅝ to ¾ cent lower and oats off ¼ to ⅜ cent. Rye rallied in the late trading on buying headed by a house with eastern connections and closed ⅛ to ⅝ cent higher. Soy beans were off 1 to 1⅛ cents.

Yesterday's range of prices in dollars per bushel:

EXTEND PURCHASE PERIOD.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 21 (AP).—OPA said today that flour wholesalers will be given an additional month in which to make purchases on which to base price ceilings. The action is being taken, the OPA said, "to prevent needless overstocking" by wholesalers.

The original order fixing markups allowed wholesale dealers in flour provided that wholesalers must take delivery of flour by Feb. 10 in order to base their maximum prices on their newest net cost. The amendment extends the deadline to March 10.

Crop Estimate Reduced.

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 21 (AP).—The dominion bureau of statistics, in its third estimate of Canada's 1942 wheat crop, today placed production at a record high of 592 million 700 thousand bushels, but 22 million 500 thousand lower than the first calculation.

Other estimates included oats at 652 million against 306 million in 1941, and barley at 259 million and 111 million, respectively. Rye was placed at 25 million, compared with 12 million. Flaxseed output was placed at 15 million and 5 million 800 thousand, respectively.

'ARMY TRANSPORT CHIEF COMMENDS RAILROADS' WORK

The work of the railroads in the war was praised yesterday by Maj. Gen. Charles P. Gross, chief of transportation of the army's service of supply, in a talk before members of the Union League club. He said that the railroads were probably the best prepared for war of any civilian agency. They knew what war meant and how to handle it.

Gen. Gross said that in the next year the railroads will have a greater load to carry. They have taken up about all their slack and need more cars and locomotives to do the job. He said he is hopeful they will get additional equipment this year.

Preceding Gen. Gross' talk 12 members of the male chorus of the Gary works of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation, participants in last year's Chicago Music Festival, gave a musical program.

People and Events

James A. Prindiville of Thomson & McKinnon was elected president of the Chicago Board of Trade Clearing corporation at the annual meeting of board of governors yesterday. Archer E. Hayes and Thomas E. Hosty were elected vice presidents; William H. Symmes, secretary; Karl H. Rehnberg, manager, and James E. Hunter, assistant manager. M. R. Glaser of Rosenbaum Brothers was elected to the board of governors to replace Richard F. Uhlmann who retired after serving as a governor since 1931 and as president of the corporation for a number of years.

Northwest Associated Manufacturers, a civic and business organization of manufacturers on Chicago's northwest side, has elected the following officers: A. Van Gorkom, president; G. L. Meyer, vice president, and G. H. Pulsford, secretary-treasurer.

James S. Knowlson, president and chairman of the board of the Stewart Warner corporation, will address the 39th annual meeting of Chicago Association of Commerce next Wednesday in the Palmer House. Knowlson recently resigned as vice chairman of WPB.

Charles M. Robertson, president of the Kroger Grocery and Baking company, Cincinnati, O., has been elected a director of the Commercial National Bank and Trust company of New York.

SWIFT'S GAINS IN OUTPUT FOR WAR DESCRIBED

Announces Special 30 Cent Dividend.

War time operating problems of Swift & Co. and how they were met in 1942 with shattered production schedules and new delivery records, heretofore deemed "impossible," were described by President John Holmes at the annual meeting of stockholders yesterday.

John Holmes.

Announcement also was made that directors had declared a special dividend of 30 cents a capital share, payable March 5, in addition to the regular quarterly dividend of the same amount, payable April 1.

Swift's military and lend-lease sales ran into "very impressive" totals during the last year, Holmes said, but he added that civilian business still constitutes the major part of company activities.

Canned Meat Expansion Big.

Among products to undergo especially large expansion was canned meats. To obtain the millions of pounds of canned pork, most of which went to the government, the company had to trim out more than a quarter of a billion pounds of fresh ham and shoulder cuts of pork which normally would have gone into trade channels as fresh or smoked hams and picnics. Whereas the company was equipped to produce slightly less than 2 million pounds of canned meat a week in 1941, it now can produce more than four times that amount.

The war stimulated the dairy and poultry branch of the company to the extent that milk production established new records, and cheese production exceeded that of 1941 by 25 per cent.

"We have installed several egg dryers and are taking an active part in that program," Holmes said. "We also are installing some milk dryers to help meet the constantly expanding requirements of the government for dried skim milk."

Develop New Products.

Holmes said one interesting revival has been the demand for Wiltshire sides of pork for export to England, "something we had not exported from our United States plants for over 20 years." This cured cut is made up of the entire side of the hog without the head or feet.

A new development was a dehydrated dog food which could be packed in paper containers to replace the type normally manufactured and which was halted because of the ban on tin for containers.

The company also developed a "war" lard which not only maintains satisfactory consistency at high temperature but also possesses greater resistance to rancidity.

Four directors reelected for three year terms are Charles H. Swift, Lewis L. Clarke, John Holmes, and O. E. Jones.

At the end of the meeting, stockholders watched presentation to the Chicago plant of the army-navy E award in recognition of the company's record of produoction. The award was the first of its kind in the meat packing industry.

FOOTE BROTHERS TURNS BACK TWO MILLION TO U. S.

Foote Brothers Gear and Machine corporation, Chicago, whose plants are almost entirely converted to war work, yesterday reported a rise in profits and disclosed that it has decided to return $2,059,965 voluntarily to the government from payments received in the last year.

Profit during the fiscal year ended Oct. 31 rose to $914,453, equal to $4.68 a share on the common stock, from $533,294, or $3.18 a share, in the preceding fiscal year. The 1942 earnings were after provision of $3,617,500 for federal taxes, $300,000 as a reserve for conversion of plants to peace time requirements, $200,000 for contingencies, and the voluntary refund.

Sales soared to $18,368,180 from $5,800,716 in 1941.

Corporation net incomes reported yesterday included the following:

BUILDING PERMIT VALUE DECLINES FOR DECEMBER

Building permits issued in Chicago during December totaled 123, with an estimated cost of $852,354, a decrease of 13 per cent from November, Francis B. Murphy, state director of labor, announced yesterday.

Twenty-four permits were issued for new residential construction estimated to cost $604,045, and 35 for nonresidential construction estimated to cost $109,467. The others were for additions. The only gain over November was one of 34 per cent in residential construction.

Building permit valuations decreased 40 per cent to $35,626,111 for all 1942 from $59,016,523 the preceding year. The 1940 figure was $47,519,599.

Treasury Note Issue Illegal, Spahr Alleges

New York, Jan. 21 (AP).—Walter E. Spahr, secretary of the Economists' National Committee on Monetary Policy and professor of economics at New York university, in an open letter to congress charges that issuance of 660 million dollars of federal reserve bank notes by the treasury is unauthorized by law and a form of "greenbackism."

He says: "If our treasury and federal reserve authorities are to resort to greenbackism, they should do so openly and inform congress and the people of that fact.

Argument of Spahr.

"The following facts are not to be controverted:

"1. There is no law authorizing the treasury's action in issuing federal reserve bank notes up to 660 million dollars or in any amount whatever.

"2. Such notes can be legally issued only by federal reserve banks and only in accordance with provisions of the federal reserve act.

"3. The new so-called federal reserve bank notes are not issued by the federal reserve banks and are not liabilities of these banks.

"4. The statement on the face of these notes to the effect that they are 'secured by United States bonds deposited with the treasurer of the United States of America or by like deposit of other securities' is a falsehood."

Explanation by Reserve.

Spahr asserted that the federal reserve press release of Dec. 13 said the reserve banks had been authorized to utilize "the existing stock of currency printed in the early '30s known as 'federal reserve bank notes'" and the excuse was offered that more than $300,000 would be saved in the cost of printing new currency.

Spahr said, however, the effect of issuing the currency by the banks, under reserve rules, or issuing them by the treasury was vastly different. He calculated issuance of the money by the banks would permit an expansion of bank deposits, under the banking laws, of $1,885,714,285, while issuance by the treasury would permit an expansion of deposits in the banking system of $9,428,571,425.

SPACE REPORTED SOUGHT FOR U. S. IN MICHIGAN AVE.

An order will be issued today by the government requisitioning space in the four story building at the northwest corner of Michigan avenue and East South Water street, it was reported yesterday. If done, this space will be used by the United States employment service, now in the Civic Opera building.

The move is planned to give the army additional facilities in that building. Arthur Rubloff & Co. manages the building for the county treasurer, Victor L. Schlaeger, who is receiver for the property under the Skarda act, which authorizes the county to take over tax delinquent property.

PERE MARQUETTE DIVIDEND STATUS HELD UNCERTAIN

New York, Jan. 21 (AP).—Robert J. Bowman, president of the Pere Marquette railway, said today that prospects for the resumption of dividends on the company's stocks are clouded by possible wage increases and future bond maturities.

Bowman said he recently has received "many inquiries from investment services, stockholders, and brokers" with reference to policy on dividends for the prior preference, preferred, and common stocks.

Launch Campaign of Safety

A ratio of 100 Americans to 36 Germans and 21 Japs, approximately half of whom are war workers, are being killed by accidents because of a lack of realization of the need for safety, Col. John Stilwell, vice president of the Consolidated Edison company of New York, and president of the National Safety council, said yesterday at the Chicago club.

William A. Irvin.

Launching the safety campaign of the War Production Fund to conserve man power in the Chicago area, Col. Stilwell asserted private industry must aid in lowering the accident rate in war plants or the government may be forced to take over the problem.

Chicago Area Criticized.

It will be because of negligence of management if this happens, and it would be difficult for private enterprise to get back control of safety and other plant problems after the war, he warned.

William A. Irvin, former chairman of the board of the United States Steel corporation and chairman of the War Production Fund committee charged that the Chicago area is behind other parts of the country in its safety program because of a lack of knowledge and lackadaisical thinking. He said much must be done to impress this area with the importance of safety measures.

Second Most Careless Nation.

The United States is the most careless nation in the world except Chile, Irvin said. It is up to management to make the people realize the need for an all out safety campaign that will cut down the 500 million man days lost every year because of 4 million persons injured and 250,000 killed or permanently disabled.

It is necessary for industry to contribute voluntarily 5 million dollars for safety, he asserted. In Chicago, $246,000 of the $400,000 allotted this region has been raised, but more contributions are needed.

Price Index Rises

The federal bureau of labor statistics reported yesterday that its index of wholesale prices rose 0.2 per cent during the week ended Jan. 16 to 101.6 per cent of the 1926 average.

Average prices for both farm products and foods increased 0.4 per cent during the period. The rise in food was led by increases of 1 per cent for cereal products, fruits, and vegetables.

The index for the corresponding week of 1937 was 85.7 and for January, 1929, it was 95.9.

Half of 'Free' Silver Placed in War Service

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 21.—The treasury department reported today that as of Jan. 15 it had turned over to the Defense Plant corporation 636,087,000 ounces of silver to be used for war purposes. The silver is to be returned to the treasury after the war.

Treasury officials said the silver was being used for "nonconsumptive" purposes such as in electrical conductors, for bus bars used in the aluminum industry, and in certain alloys from which the metal later could be recovered.

Altogether 1,287,000,000 ounces of silver are available for use in war production if the users promise to return it to the treasury department at some later date, officials said. This total represents the "free silver" supply of the treasury—silver not held for monetary purposes.

For manufacturers making civilian products out of silver and those using silver in materials in which the metal cannot be recovered, newly mined domestic silver is available at a little over 71 cents an ounce. Most manufacturers, particularly jewelers, use foreign silver, which sells for 50 to 55 cents an ounce. Frequently foreign silver is hard to obtain.

In view of the present shortage of critical metals, Sen. T. F. Green [D., R. I.] has sought the approval of congress to a pending measure that would release all the treasury's free silver at about 50 cents an ounce to manufacturers. The treasury has supported this bill. It has met considerable opposition from the "silver bloc."

DREDGE AND DOCK ORDERS TWO 25 CENT DIVIDENDS

Directors of the Great Lakes Dredge and Dock company yesterday declared two dividends of 25 cents each, one an extra and the other the usual quarterly dividend. The company, which has headquarters in Chicago, paid $2 a share last year, twice the amount paid in 1941.

CONFLICT OVER RENT CONTROL IS TOLD BY BOHRER

Randolph Bohrer, one of the owners of the Country Club apartment hotel, 6930 South Shore drive, on the stand yesterday at a public hearing on rents at the hotel, told of an apparent conflict between the regional and area rent control offices. Overriding objections of the chief attorney of the Chicago area rent control office, Bohrer told of an interview with Mrs. Marcia Lewis, an attorney in the regional office.

He said that she told him she had made a review of the rent situation at the hotel and would arrange for a hearing at the regional office. Later, Bohrer said, she admitted the case had to go thru the area office and that the regional office had no jurisdiction.

Bohrer was granted a rent increase in some of the hotel apartments last October. Recently, however, he was notified by Earl D. Howard, area rent director, that he would have to give additional evidence warranting an increase, or the order would be rescinded.

GASOLINE PURCHASES ON CREDIT BY PRIVATE AUTO OWNERS BANNED

Washington, D. C., Jan. 21 (AP).—The petroleum administration today prohibited all credit buying of gasoline and other petroleum products by private motor cars, effective Feb. 1. The order makes exceptions for sale to federal, state or local governments, for commercial use of motor boats, and motor vehicles displaying "T" ration stickers.

An order effective Jan. 1 had limited use of credit cards to a single retail outlet, instead of being good in any station operated by the same company.

Ralph K. Davies, deputy petroleum administrator, said the original order was to reduce bookkeeping and personnel of marketers, saving man power and reducing costs. Of the new order, Davies said: "The intent remains the same." Exceptions were made he added, "in view of the peculiar requirements of these classes."

COPYWRITER

The man we want is probably now employed. In his present connection he may have gone about as far as possible or he may feel that he has wrestled too long with the same problems and products.

We want a man who can create and compose selling copy as well as edit and supervise production of other writers. We prefer one who has had some experience on food copy though that is not imperative. A man who has had extensive experience and a record of accomplishment will find an excellent opportunity in leading advertising agency at a salary commensurate with his capacity. All inquiries will be treated in strictest confidence and returned if requested. Box YJ554, Chicago Tribune.

OPA PERMITTED TO INTERVENE IN RAIL FARE FIGHT

Seeks to Bar I. C.'s Suburban Boost.

The office of price administration yesterday was granted leave by Superior Judge John F. Bolton to intervene in an injunction action brought by the Illinois Central railroad to restrain the Illinois commerce commission from interfering with a 10 per cent fare increase on commutation tickets which became effective last March.

Judge Bolton recently granted a temporary injunction giving the road authority to maintain the increase after the commerce commission had rejected the plea of the Illinois Central and other roads for increases in their suburban rates.

Termed Disruptive to Prices.

The OPA petition, filed by Alex Elson, regional attorney, said that any increase in fares will have a disruptive effect on the price structure which the OPA is endeavoring to maintain. It explained further that automobile, tire, and gasoline rationing is affecting travel habits.

"It may reasonably be expected that competition from other forms of transportation such as buses and private automobiles will be reduced and that urban and suburban passenger traffic upon the plaintiff's railroad system and the revenues derived therefrom will be considerably increased," the petition said.

"Whatever may be the merits of the plaintiff's contention in normal times, the situation now presented is not the usual situation where a public utility is held to be entitled as a matter of constitutional right to a schedule of rates calculated to yield a reasonable net return on the capital used and useful in the public service, but that of a grave national emergency where the lives and property of all our citizens must be dedicated to a single purpose."

Given 30 Days to Answer.

The petition said the suburban service involved is an indispensable transportation for millions of people in one of the most vital defense areas in the country and that normal means of avoiding increased transportation costs are not now available.

Judge Bolton gave the railroad 30 days to file an answer.

Meantime, the Illinois Central and the North Western have announced that they will increase shortly certain of their commutation fares not increased last year. The action was taken under court orders. The Burlington, Rock Island, and other roads with suburban services did not increase their fares because they were unable to obtain Illinois commerce commission approval. It is said the Burlington will continue to push its fight for increased suburban fares.

The Illinois Central will put the new increases into effect Sunday and the North Western increases will become effective Feb. 1.

INVESTORS' GUIDE

[The following article is the first of a series to summarize and explain the principal features of the 1942 income tax law. The new law contains important changes from previous income tax laws, as well as sharply higher normal and surtax rates. Obviously, it will be impossible to cover all the ifs, ands, and buts which complicate the income tax law. For the large majority of taxpayers, however, these articles will embrace all the essential information.]

PERSONAL INCOME TAX.

On or before March 15, 1943, single persons who had a total income of $500 or more in 1942 and married persons with a combined income of $1,200 or more must file an income tax return. At the same time they must pay at least one-fourth of any income tax due the federal government. The return must be filed, on a form supplied by the government, whether or not there is any tax to be paid.

The forms are of two types—1040 or 1040A. The latter is a simplified report which may be used at the taxpayer's option if his gross income does not exceed $3,000 and is derived entirely from wages, salary, dividends, interest or annuities. Form 1040A makes an arbitrary but liberal allowance for various deductions, but the individual will do well to figure his income tax according to both forms and choose the one that costs him least.

When form 1040 is used, changes in the taxpayer's status during the year must be taken into account. Thus, if a man married on May 1 he would be entitled to a single man's exemption for four months and a married man's exemption for eight months. Similarly, a child born Sept. 1 could be listed as a dependent for only four months. With form 1040A, however, the taxpayer's status as of July 1, 1942, is treated as his status for the entire year.

Aside from its advantage of simplicity, form 1040A may effect a saving when one or more of the following circumstances apply:

1. Your total deductions for interest, charity, etc., are less than 6 per cent of income.
2. You were married on July 1 but not for the full year.
3. You were head of a family on July 1 but not for the full year.
4. Medical and dental expenses did not considerably exceed 5 per cent of your income.
5. You had dependents July 1 who were not dependents for the entire year.
6. Your child was born during the first half of 1942.
7. Your child became 18 during the last half of 1942.

A certain portion of one's income is exempted from income tax. For a single person the exemption is $500, for the married person or the head of a family it is $1,200. A head of a family is defined as "an individual who actually supports and maintains in one household one or more individuals who are closely connected with him by blood relationship, relationship by marriage or by adoption, and whose right to provide for these dependents is based upon some moral or legal obligation." If married persons file separate returns, the $1,200 exemption may be taken by either or divided in any way they agree upon.

An additional $350 credit is allowed for each dependent [a wife is not a dependent], if form 1040 is used, and $385 if 1040A is used. A child ceases to be a dependent for income tax purposes upon reaching the age of 18 unless physically or mentally defective.

[Tomorrow's article will discuss what income is taxable and what is exempt.]

WPB DEMANDS ACTION FROM WMC ON APPEAL FOR MINERS IN WEST

Washington, D. C., Jan. 21 (AP).—The WPB called on the war man power commission today for action on a request by Solid Fuels Coördinator Harold L. Ickes that 2,000 coal miners be sent into five far western states to relieve a "critical situation."

The apparently unprecedented call by WPB followed an appeal to its labor requirements committee by Ickes' deputy, T. J. Thomas, who complained he had sought action from WMC since last summer, but so far had "obtained little or no relief."

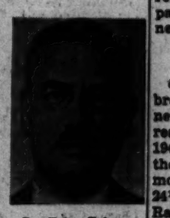
Thomas said that Washington, Oregon, Utah, and Wyoming coal needs have become "critical" because of a lack of man power and it has been necessary to transport coal from Pennsylvania and West Virginia, placing a further burden on the carriers, which Thomas called "stupid and silly."

January Egg Futures Drop to Low for Season

January egg futures declined 0.25 cent a dozen yesterday to a seasonal low of 36 cents on the Chicago Mercantile exchange. The break was attributed to warmer weather increased receipts and announcement of a reduction in prices the government will pay for dried eggs.

DUTCH SCIENTIST PREDICTS WIDER USE OF RUBBER

Price and suitability will determine the post-war uses of natural and synthetic rubber, and regardless of the outcome of competition between the two, the world is certain to use more rubber after the war ends, Prof. Peter Debye, noted Dutch scientist, told the American Chemical society's Chicago section yesterday in the Medinah club.



Dr. Peter Debye.

Developments in the race to overcome the loss of natural rubber to the Japs in the western Pacific already assure more widespread utilization of rubber and rubber-like products, said Dr. Debye, Nobel prize winner and chairman of the chemistry department at Cornell university.

Engineering Construction Awards Below Year Ago

New York, Jan. 21 (AP).—Engineering construction awards this week amounted to $67,930,000, an increase of 28 per cent over the $53,113,000 the preceding week, but 47 per cent under the year ago total of $127,640,000, Engineering News-Record reported today.

STOCK MARKET SWINGS HIGHER IN BROAD TRADE

Some Gains Range Up to 4 Points.

New York, Jan. 21 (AP).—Under the leadership of steels, motors, and other industrials, the stock market today pushed up fractions to a point or more generally with a few issues rising as much as 4 points.

The last minute comeback of Wednesday was extended moderately at the opening in sluggish dealings. Buyers then became more confident and activity quickened after midday. Closing prices were at or near the peak of the session. Rails and utilities were relatively narrow although most were up small amounts.

The belief that the list was in a healthier condition as the result of Tuesday's relapse, plus continued good war news, investment demand, and a slight revival of inflation psychology, appeared to bolster the market.

Stock Average Is Higher.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up .4 of a point at 42.7, thus canceling the drop of Tuesday and equalling the peak level since early October, 1941. Transfers totaled 810,270 shares against 518,340 Wednesday.

At new tops for more than a year were General Motors, Chrysler, Montgomery Ward, J. I. Case, International Nickel, Zenith Radio, and Pepsi-Cola.

American Telephone was an exception, losing ¾ in the wake of the company's agreement with the federal communications commission to cut overtime rates on long distance calls. The telephone issue was more resistant than most had expected, tho, and it was suggested the loss of revenues by the reduction may be partly offset by expanding gross business.

CHICAGO GAINS WIDE.

Chicago stocks advanced on a broad front yesterday, and altho most net gains were fractional, 12 issues reached their highest prices of 1942-'43. Those at new peaks among the more active issues included Commonwealth Edison, up ¾ point to 24¼; Cities Service, up ⅝, and Zenith Radio, which gained a full point.

The 25 cent extra dividend on Great Lakes Dredge stock caused a 1 point rise to a new peak at 19⅝.

BOND PRICES RALLY.

New York, Jan. 21 (AP).—The bond market today rallied briskly over a broad front which placed large numbers of rails, industrials, and utilities at their highest levels in the last year or longer.

A strong demand for low and medium priced carrier obligations early in the session touched off a sustained buying move which affected virtually every section of the list and was going ahead without signs of tiring at the close. Activity was much faster than earlier this week when profit taking brought indecisive performances. Sales of $15,195,200 compared with $10,204,500 Wednesday.

These fees are deductible on your income tax return

Fees paid for managing investments producing taxable income may now be deducted on your income tax return. This substantially reduces the net cost not only of investment agencies and custodianships, but also of living trusts and trusts under will.

If, because of the pressure of war work or for other reasons, you are unable to devote the necessary time to handling your investments, you may now wish to investigate the advantages of these various services. Our trust officers will be pleased to explain them to you without obligation.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, Jan. 21 (AP).—Cotton textile business was held to a small volume today due to the difficulty in obtaining deliveries. There was a persistent demand for fabrics, sheetings, and a wide variety of drills and print cloths to fill military and lend-lease orders. Not only was low priorities business confronted with this situation but orders carrying AA-1 to AA-5 ratings were affected as well.

TOM COFFER

Tom is the congenial personnel man in charge of our chemical department. His job is unique because he is the only personnel man in Chicago who devotes his entire time to the placement of chemical help. You won't have to talk to him long before you are convinced that he is an authority on the personnel problems of the chemical profession.

He says he now has positions for girls who have had only High School Chemistry and many opportunities for girls with degrees or some college training.

Come in today and let Mr. Coffer tell you about these positions.
